Fact generally knocks the nonsense out of poetry, and right off the bat we doubt and scorn the first bit of news which catches the eye—gentleman claims that the automobile keeps people from going to the polls on election day, but it will be recalled that back in the day of Caesar, the big political boss of the time, folks had learned how to neglect the business of self-government, and what make of flivver could you blame that on?

In eight States tomorrow will be held the last of this season's primaries. If Mr. Michelet really wants to fix the responsibility for the failure of the people to vote there's the culprit.

INADEQUATE ROADS THREATEN TO RUIN MOTORCAR TRAFFIC

Nation Has Only 65,000 Miles of Highways That Are Paved.

CAN NOT TAKE CARE GREAT AUTO OUTPUT

Surveys Indicate Hundreds of Millions Must Be Added to Billion Annual Outlay.

By WILLIAM P. HELM, Jr.

Paralysis of motor traffic in many sections of the United States is threatened within the next few years unless there is a speedy and complete revision of the nation's highway construction program. Surveys undertaken in various localities recently by the Federal bureau of public roads and by private organizations indicate clearly that within the next four or five years hundreds of millions of dollars must be added annually to the $1,000,000,000 a year now being spent to construct and maintain highways.

Leaders in the automotive industries and Federal officials are well aware of the danger of a breakdown which lies apparently close ahead. Roads being built today are utterly inadequate to care for the increased demands made on them by the passenger cars, trucks and motor buses at the present time. All the hard-surface roads completed in 1925 were barely sufficient to provide standing room for the new cars turned out by the factories.

The much touted highway system of the United States, in the light of these surveys, is largely a myth. Instead of 270,000 miles of good road, as generally believed, there are in the United States today less than 65,000 miles of hard-surfaced roads of all kinds and descriptions. More than 125,000 miles of the 270,000 are nothing more or less than plain dirt roads, only partially graded and drained. They constitute, in poor weather conditions, an execrable pathway for travel.

145,000 Miles Surfaced.

One hundred and forty-five thousand miles of roadway in the United States are listed by the bureau of public roads as surfaced roads. Of these, 12,670 miles are simply sand clay fashioned to roadway form. Another 64,408 miles consist of gravel and similar materials whipped into roads and untreated. Nearly 5,000 miles more are water-bound macadam, likewise untreated. Of the remaining 63,618 miles, constituting the really passable roadways of the nation, less than one-half, or 27,875 miles, are of Portland cement concrete.

There are twelve States out of the 48 which have less than 200 miles apiece of hard-surface roads of any description within their borders. Louisiana, one of the more populous of these States, had 207,000 motor cars registered in 1925. She counts the miles of her "good" roadways at 7,000, but actually has only 149 miles of paved roads within her borders. Alabama has but 193; Montana, 40; Idaho, 126; Vermont, 143; Arizona, 187; New Mexico, 71; Wyoming, 46, and Nevada, 83. Nebraska, with 338,719 motor cars registered at her license bureau, has only 91 miles of hard-surface roadway and the two Dakotas, with 313,000 cars, have only 8 miles between them.

Demand Exceeds Building.

It is impossible today, after 10 years of intensive road building and the expenditure of more than $8,000,000,000, to go from coast to coast entirely over hard-surfaced roadways on any route. Road building is one of the slowest and most expensive forms of American industry, and notwithstanding the brilliant direction and supervision of highway construction centering largely at Washington, and the combined brains of the automotive and engineering industries, prog-

Brookhart Is Better; Operation Unlikely

Washington, Iowa., Sept. 12 (By A. P.).—Continued improvement today in the condition of Col. Smith W. Brookhart, Republican nominee for the United States Senate, probably will make unnecessary an operation for gravel stones in the kidneys scheduled for tomorrow, Col. Brookhart announced today.

After a brief rest the candidate plans to resume his speaking engagements called off when he became ill several days ago.

Baby Is Found Playing At Nest of Rattlesnakes

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Sept. 12.—The parents of little Jack Bailey, jr., are wondering what fortunate influence operated to save their child from being bitten by a nest of rattlers and copperhead snakes near their family camp in the Massanutten mountains a day or two ago.

The child was playing some distance from the camp when his father suddenly heard the warning characteristic of the rattlesnake, and hastened to the spot. There were three large rattlers and two copperheads nearby and, although the child had not been attacked, all the reptiles appeared to be making ready for either an attack on the child or a battle among themselves.

Other members of the camping party reinforced Mr. Bailey with clubs, and all the snakes were slain. The largest had fourteen rattles on its tail.

BOY THROWN TO DEATH FROM ROLLER COASTER

Falls to Doom at Glen Echo as 200 Look On; 16 Ride Again, Despite Tragedy.

CRUSHED UNDER WHEELS

Thrown from his seat in the roller coaster at Glen Echo park last night, Richard Coffey, 12 years old, 5437 Potomac avenue northwest, was fatally hurt. He was taken to Georgetown hospital in an automobile and was pronounced dead upon arrival.

The lad was riding in the front seat of the roller coaster, which was drawing to a stop at the station. Officials at the park were unable to ascertain what caused him to fall. The train struck his head, crushing his skull and he fell four feet through the tracks.

More than 200 persons were in line waiting to ride on the coaster when the boy was fatally hurt. Eighteen persons were in the car with him. When the train started again after the boy was on route to the hospital, every seat in it was occupied. Sixteen of the original eighteen in the car when the boy was killed, did not leave their seats.

L. B. Schloss, manager of the park, said more than 500,000 people have ridden on the roller coaster this year without injury. Last night the park closed for the season.

Drowns With Brother He Tries to Rescue

Special to The Washington Post.

Front Royal, Va., Sept. 12.—James Kaplan, ago 13, and brother Harry, aged 9, were drowned here this afternoon in the Shenandoah river. The boys had gone to the river near Riverton looking for their pony which had been missing several days and were playing around the dam when the youngest fell into about 6 feet of water. The older boy jumped in after him, drowned.

American Rifle Team Defeated by British

Sea Girt, N. J., Sept. 12 (By A. P.). — The world record, which American riflemen established last year, was broken today by the British rifle team in defeating for the first time since 1913, the United States team in the international bore match for the Dewar trophy.

Shooting at 50 and 100 yards, the Englishmen scored 7,793 out of a possible 8,000 points, and the Americans 7,733. The American team last year scored 7,790.

COMMUNIST IS SLAIN BY TRIO IN CHICAGO

Frank Bukoff Shot to Death While in Bed at a Rooming House.

Chicago, Sept. 12 (By A. P.).—Frank Bukoff, known to have been active in socialist and communistic affairs, was shot to death in his rooming house bed last night by three unidentified men.

His body was found amid newspaper clippings and communications dealing with Russian sovietism and communistic enterprises in China and other parts of the world, and neighbors said Bukoff's room was a gathering place for persons believed to have similar associations.

"You will meet me, be sure, at 10:30," was scrawled on an envelope found among his effects, on which also was written the name of Miss Virginia Allison, Indianapolis, Ind.

GORSLINE TO GIVE MORE HALL MURDER FACTS, IS REPORT

Will "Tell All I Know," Vestryman Is Now Quoted as Saying.

MAY BE CONFRONTED BY DEFENSE COUNSEL

Part of Untold Story Said to Explain Love Notes Left With Bodies.

Special to The Washington Post.

Somerville, N. J., Sept. 12.—Ralph V. Gorsline, the vestryman forced into prominence in the Hall-Mills investigation through his acknowledged presence in De Russey's lane when the Rev. Dr. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills were murdered nearby, is reported to have told friends today that he had decided "to tell all I know."

Part of his story is reported to deal with the love notes scattered around the dead bodies, under the crabapple tree. One of the many mystifying features to investigators of the crime has been the presence of these letters, apparently left behind by the murderers.

Gorsline and Miss Catherine Rastall, the choir singer, who was with him in the lane when shots, screams and a moan were heard, are expected to appear at State police headquarters tomorrow and arrange for bonds of $10,000 and $5,000 respectively. Alexander Simpson, assistant attorney general, insists on these precautions to insure their presence before the grand jury, which convenes on September 21.

May Visit Lawyers.

As soon as the vestryman appears Inspector John W. Underwood will march Mr. Gorsline to the nearby office of a lawyer for the defense.

"This lawyer will be asked if it was theory or if he had some basis of fact when he linked the names of two men as yet unknown with the crime," Senator Simpson declared.

An important conference of counsel for the defense was reported in progress tonight in New Brunswick to consider new developments in the case. Robert H. McCarter, Timothy Pfeiffer and Russell E. Watson were said to be present.

James Mills, husband of the slain choir singer, was his usual apathetic self today, not one whit disturbed as the fourth anniversary of the murder of his wife neared.

"Simpson was clever to get Gorsline. He knew all this time—four years—and kept a still tongue in his head. I think they're going to clear this up. I don't care what

Torrential Rainfall Floods Kansas Towns

Emporia, Kans., Sept. 12 (By A. P.). — Record breaking rainfall early today sent rivers and creeks on a rampage in a 150 square mile area around Emporia, flooding parts of several towns and inundating lowlands.

The business section of Burlington, near here, was under six feet of water. One boy lost his life when a rowboat capsized at Madison, where the residence district was flooded.

The rainfall, which began last night and continued heavily until this morning, amounted to eleven inches at Leroy, Kans.

ROIJEN TO BE NAMED DUTCH MINISTER HERE

Diplomat a Brother-in-Law of Beekman Winthrop; Is Now in Rome.

Amsterdam, Holland, Sept. 12 (By A. P.). — The Handelsblad learns that Hermaen van Roijen, the Dutch Minister in Rome, Italy, will be appointed Minister to the United States, succeeding Dr. A. C. D. de Graeffe, who has been promoted to governor general of the Dutch East Indies.

Mr. van Roijen is well known in the United States. His wife was Albertina T. Winthrop, daughter of the late Robert Winthrop and sister of Beekman Winthrop, Assistant Secretary of the Navy in the Taft administration.

He was mentioned for the Washington post as early as 1917, when he was Minister to Spain, and again in 1921.

Famous Anthropologist Is Held at Ellis Island

Baltimore, Sept. 12 (By A. P.).—Dr. Adolph H. Schultz, associate professor of physical anthropology of the Johns Hopkins medical school, is being detained at Ellis island as an alien, according to Dr. George B. Wislocki, who returned from Europe with Prof. Schultz on the steamer City of Berlin. Dr. Wislocki and Mrs. Schultz, a native American, reached here last night.

A message setting forth Dr. Schultz's connections and stating that he is needed at the university was sent to the commissioner of immigration for the port of New York today by Dr. Lawrence H. Baker, executive secretary of the medical school.

Dr. Schultz, born in Switzerland, was a member of the Carnegie institute from 1915 until 1925, when he became associated with Johns Hopkins. One of the professor's friends said he understood the famous anthropologist had taken out first naturalization papers.

EL BLUFF REPORTED WON BY NICARAGUAN REBELS

Island Between That Town and Bluefields Also Taken by Insurgents.

CUSTOMS HOUSE RIDDLED

San Salvador, Republic of Salvador, Sept. 12 (By A. P.).—Nicaraguan revolutionary headquarters announces in a communication just issued that the forces of Gen. Chamorro, the de facto president, have been defeated at Somotiaelo, and that Gen. Beltran, revolutionary leader, has taken El Bluff.

The communication reports great activity among the revolutionaries in Nicaragua.

Managua, Nicaragua, Sept. 12 (By A. P.).—Serious fighting took place yesterday around El Bluff between the revolutionary forces and the government. William J. Crampton, the American collector of customs at that place, telegraphs that the revolutionists succeeded in capturing part of El Bluff and the island between that town and Bluefields.

The garrisons at El Bluff were bombarded heavily Saturday with shrapnel shells, one exploding within a few yards of the trenches. Government artillery destroyed one machine gun nest, demolishing the gun and killing 17 of the enemy.

Revolutionary machine guns on the beach concentrated a heavy fire on the wharf where government troops were stationed, and the customs house was riddled with bullets. Two vessels were engaged in the bombardment and three others were standing by.

It is declared that American mahogany and fruit companies are suffering heavy losses, the revolution causing a cessation of boat services.

The American charge, Lawrence Dennis, received instructions today from the State Department at Washington that the United States was willing to lend its good office to assist in the reestablishment of peace and international goodwill in Nicaragua.

PORTUGUESE CAPTAIN BEGINS BRIEF REVOLT

Seizes Chaves Postoffice and Station; Yields When Unsupported.

Lisbon, Sept. 12 (By A. P.).—Because of reports of disturbances of public order in the north, the Portuguese government has issued an official note stating that a conflict occurred at Chaves, near the frontier, between military elements, which was completely quelled, order being complete throughout the country.

The trouble at Chaves arose out of an attempt by an infantry captain to start a revolt, but he succeeded in enlisting only a few soldiers. Officers refused to join him and were placed under arrest by the insurgents, who occupied the postoffice and the railway station.

Later the mutinous captain, realizing that further support was hopeless, surrendered to the commanding officer of his regiment.

8 Men in Tennessee Penitentiary Escape

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 13 (Monday) (By A. P.).—Eight men escaped from the Tennessee penitentiary here at midnight Sunday after having sawed bars in the tuberculosis hospital and confining two prison guards.

MAIL CLERKS TOLD TO SHOOT TO KILL IN WAR ON BANDITS

New Orders Battle to Death to Safeguard Postal Treasure.

OFFERS $500 REWARD FOR FIRST TO SLAY

$135,000 Chicago Robbery Prompts Move; $1,498,540 Stolen in Year.

(By the Associated Press.)

A command to "shoot to kill" was sent out yesterday by the Postoffice Department to its army of 22,500 railway mail clerks to protect from bandits, even at the cost of their own lives, the millions of dollars worth of treasure handled daily in the United States mails.

The command, which applies to the thousands of other postal employes, also constitutes a warning to the underworld that the postal service means war and any one found attempting to rob the mails may expect a cold lead reception and no mercy.

In issuing the command it also was indicated that, if this means of protection should fail, the United States marines again might be called to guard the mails, as they did late in 1921, when banditry was prevalent.

Holds Council of War.

The drastic move was determined by Postmaster General New at a council of war with his lieutenants as a result of the recent holdup near Chicago, in which bandits stole $135,000 in currency.

Postmaster General New has considered calling the marines, but the "soldiers" of his own forces—the postal employes who have been fully armed—will be able to cope, he believes, with the present epidemic of banditry.

Calling into conference Second Assistant Postmaster General W. Irving Glover, who has direct charge of the railway mail service, Gen. Supt. Aleyne A. Fisher, of that service, and Rush D. Simmons, chief inspector of the department, the Postmaster General took steps to tighten up the handling of valuable mail. Every precaution was taken by regulations to prevent any unauthorized person from entering mail cars or postoffice quarters, and orders given to shoot when necessary.

Glover Declares War.

"It is self-evident," Mr. Glover said in a communication to his men, "that members of the underworld and bandit gangs throughout the United States have again thrown down the gauntlet of battle to the railway mail service to hold up at every possible chance the postal cars and attempt to steal valuable registered packages. It means only this, that we must tighten our belts, place the holster easier of access, clean up our revolvers, be more careful in the protection of this valuable mail, and, with a more determined will 'to shoot to kill,' finally renew our pledge to protect the mail entrusted to our care.

"I have faith in the railway mail service and will back it against any similar body of men anywhere. We have a record to protect and we will do it. The number of recent holdups of postal cars makes it necessary, and the last one, which has just taken place near Chicago, is the call to arms."

Mr. Glover expressed confidence in his men and made a personal offer of a reward of $500 for the first

BOMB EXPLODES, KILLS 2 AT ANTIFASCIST MEETING

New York Speaker Holds That Missile Slew Carriers Who Were in Car.

LITTLE ITALY IN TERROR

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Sept. 12.—Terror grips New York's Little Italy today. Despite police and fire department reports to the contrary, inhabitants of the Italian sections of the East Side, shudder in the belief that bomb throwers are again at work.

For 10 years all had been comparatively quiet. Then, late last night, while an antifascist meeting was in progress at 116th street and First avenue, an automobile on the fringe of the crowd was blown to bits, one man killed outright, another fatally injured and two others were seriously hurt by a terrific explosion. At first it was believed to be an explosion of the car's gasoline tank, but now it is attributed to a bomb.

Frank Esposito, 21, owner and driver of the car, was instantly killed. Alfred de Nardo, 36, peddler, died this noon in Harlem hospital.

Joseph Paciocco, third occupant of the car, is in Harlem hospital, near death. Little Henry de Marcado, 7, who stood near, is recovering from glass cuts and injuries from flying metal.

Peter Allegra, a speaker at the antifascist meeting, tells this story:

"Fascisti attempted to halt the meeting earlier in the evening by throwing cans and bottles. I saw the car drive up. There were arguments, then the explosion. I am certain the bomb exploded prematurely while the men in the car were arguing as to where to throw it.

"Two weeks ago there was an attempt to hold up a meeting at the same place."

Police today were investigating under difficulties. To every question put to the inhabitants of Little Italy there is but one answer. A finger of one hand is held over the mouth. Two fingers of the other hand point skyward. It is the silent symbol of fear that denotes their lips are sealed on pain of death.

Pupils Win Strike Against Walking Mile

Winnipeg, Sept. 12 (By A. P.). Thirty school children who struck yesterday when ordered by school authorities to attend another school because of overcrowded conditions, won out today. The pupils protested walking a mile to the other school. They will remain at the old school.

KLANSMEN GATHER BY SPECIAL TRAINS AND AUTOMOBILES

Concentrate Quietly for White-Robed Parade This Afternoon.

MANY TRAINS ARRIVE IN SOUTHERN GROUP

Police Take Precautions to Guard Line of March Down Pennsylvania Avenue.

Washington awakes today to again find itself in the hands of the hooded hosts of the Ku Klux Klan.

Somewhat in the manner that the fascisti swept down on Rome, the nation's capital was the hub of a great wheel of travel throughout the night. Countless numbers of automobiles of all makes, gaily decorated and bearing the familiar salutation "KIGY," rolled along the asphalt and dirt thoroughfares that feed the city, while between 25 and 28 special trains ground the rails.

Hundreds of travel-stained machines containing nearly 7,000 men and women, but mostly coatless men, came into the city yesterday and were directed to parking grounds at Fifteenth and H streets northeast, in East Potomac park and at Arlington horse show grounds. There was some controversy about the amount charged at the former camp site and many of the visitors returned to the other places.

Extensive precautions against fire were taken at the camp at Fifteenth and H streets. Two thousand feet of hose were laid out, and extinguishers were placed every 150 feet. A sergeant and four firemen of the fire department were stationed at the camp. The camp was inspected yesterday afternoon by officials of the police and fire departments, led by Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, chief of police, and Fire Chief Watson.

Headquarters have been established at the Washington hotel, where reservations were exhausted several weeks ago. The overflow is to be taken care of mostly in the city's smaller hostelries and in private homes. At the Willard and Mayflower no appreciable increase in registration was reported.

Signs Welcome Visitors.

Scattered throughout the city were some signs of welcome to the visitors in the display of small American flags and the like, but, as was the case last year, the city did not don its full holiday regalia.

There was a profusion of flags with the incoming automobiles and other things klan, but the city was able to absorb yesterday's arrivals without an appreciable dent.

Today the mystic order will parade over the nation's most historic thoroughfares.

It is estimated that the trains incoming during the night bore about 28,000 of the robed figures. The number of special trains was not as high as that of last year, when there were 42, but this year there was expected to be an increase in the number of special cars attached to regular trains as well as an increase in the scattered travel.

Cars From Florida.

The meeting will be representative of the country as a whole. There will be delegations from virtually every State in the country, and generally they will not travel in special trains.

The great majority of the special trains came from the East, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland and upstate New York. The first to arrive was one of 14 cars from Florida and other Southern points at 8 o'clock last night. Thereafter there was a lull in the special train movement until about 4 or 5 o'clock this morning.

Early this morning, too, there is expected to get underway the automobile movement from nearby Virginia and Maryland points. There were scattered train and automobile arrivals throughout the night. A reception committee met all trains at the Union station and directed the visitors to quarters.

Police Take Precautions.

Extraordinary precautions have been taken by the police for any possible contingency. Pennsylvania avenue from the Capitol to the Treasury and thence to the Sylvan theater will be lined with police pacing at brief intervals and corps of men will be held in reserve. If the parade, however, is a repetition of last year, it will be one of

Boy and Girl Swim 3 Miles, Clothed, to Bring Aid to 7

Ocean City, N. J., Sept. 12 (By A. P.).—A 17-year-old boy and his 16-year-old sister, both fully clothed, swam 3 miles to shore today to summon aid for their father and six other men, whose fishing boat had overturned.

The boy, Thorn Henderson, was first to reach land and inform life guards of the mishap.

Hastily launching three motor boats the guards headed for the open sea, Henderson going with them. A few hundred yards out they saw a figure swimming toward shore.

"That's my sister, Edith," the boy said. "We were all out fishing in a 40-foot boat when it hit a bar and capsized. We all managed to grab hold of the boat, but I knew we couldn't hold on forever, so I said I was going after help. Edith said she was going with me. She's a dandy swimmer and kept up with me almost all the way. Don't bother about her. She'll get in all right."

The guards, however, were afraid the girl would be exhausted and approached to take her in.

"Don't stop," she shouted. "I'm all right. Go out and get the rest of them." And with a wave of dismissal she swam on toward the beach.

When the guards reached the boat, they found the seven men clinging to the upturned keel, all near exhaustion.

G. O. P. BANKRUPT, MENTALLY, MORALLY, DEMOCRATS ASSERT

Administration Called Subservient to Big Business and Callous to Corruption.

ISSUE "BOOK OF FACTS" FOR USE IN CAMPAIGN

Competitive Tariff, Lower Freight Rates, Export Corporation for Farmers.

(By the Associated Press.)

The Republican administration was attacked as "morally and intellectually bankrupt" in a Democratic campaign pamphlet issued yesterday under the title of the "Book of Facts," for use by Democrats in the November senatorial and congressional campaigns.

The record of the administration during the last six years, the book said, has been consistently subservient to big business, has increased governmental expenditures and has "failed utterly" to deal with the farm situation.

"The facts show that alike in its domestic and in its foreign policies," it asserted, "the Republican administration, more especially, if that is possible, since President Coolidge went to the White House, has been morally and intellectually bankrupt.

See Republicans Ashamed.

"Republicans themselves are ashamed of the record during the Harding regime, when the Daughertys, the Falls, the Forbes, the Jess Smiths, the Howard Mannington polluted the channels of government. President Coolidge, who lagged so far behind public opinion in punishing Daugherty, shows a cynicism, of contempt for the in- in his attitude toward corruption in public life.

"The essential spirit of Republicanism in government is one of synicism, of contempt for the intelligence and the idealism of the common people of the United States."

Farm Relief Promised.

Farm relief was listed as one of the dominating issues in the book, which said that Democrats propose to aid agriculture by restoring the farmers' export market, adjust the tariff to a competitive basis, lower rail and water rates, stimulate cooperative marketing, liberalize farm credits, produce cheap fertilizer and create a farm export corporation.

Advocating further tax reduction, the book charged that "every provision of the three revenue bills passed since the world war which gave relief to the smaller and general taxpayer were put there by Democratic amendments."

Considerable space was given to discussion of the aluminum industry, which, it said, was the "most complete monopoly" in America and is "controlled by Secretary Mellon and his relatives."

the most orderly gatherings ever held here.

The gathering a year ago was markedly free of disorder, especially from drunkenness. Although there have been some reports to the contrary the parade is scheduled, according to permit granted by the police, to start at 3 o'clock. All traffic will be stopped on the Avenue from 2 o'clock on.

The parade over, the homeward movement for fully two-thirds of the visitors will begin. This will comprise those who came for parade and made up the great bulk of special train travel.

Mexico May Be Topic.

Then the meeting will settle down to sessions by the regularly accredited delegates at the Washington auditorium.

Despite reports that the election of an imperial wizard will be in the order of business, it will not. He has already been reelected for a four-year term. There will quite likely be a discussion of the Mexican religious situation by some of the speakers, but no action one way or the other is expected. For the most part the meeting will be devoted to discussions of accomplishments the past year and the program for the future.

These sessions in the auditorium will continue through Wednesday.

400 Florida Klansmen Come in Special Train

The Florida delegations to the convention of the Ku Klux Klan began pouring in last night at the headquarters at the Washington hotel. Nearly all the leading cities of the State were represented in the delegation, numbering from 300 to 400 persons.

That from Jacksonville, Fla., led by Capt. John J. Garcia, arrived in the early evening on a special train of fourteen sleepers. Another delegation arrived from Miami. The Florida klansmen exhibited the usual characteristics of residents of that State. They wore Florida boosters. In this respect they were of one voice. Florida "has everything," they declared.

20,000 Klan Members Coming From Virginia

No inconsiderable percentage of the numbers in the parade of the Ku Klux Klan this afternoon will be from Virginia. Leaders of the Virginia division state that between 20,000 and 25,000 are expected to march.

The Virginia klansmen will be seventh in line, and will form in three provinces representing different sections of the State. The parade, it is expected, will be replete with bands. The Virginia division has seven in readiness, and one of these boasts 60 pieces.

Leaders report that about 20 per cent of the Virginia membership will be in the parade.

Pennsylvania Klan Brings Schoolhouse

The "Little Red Schoolhouse" made its appearance last night among the klansmen assembled here for the parade today down Pennsylvania avenue.

The schoolhouse was mounted on a truck, and needless to say, was painted very red. It was brought by klansmen of Lemoyne, Cumberland county, Pa. The leader of this group is Walter Mahaffey, of Lemoyne.

Mountaineers Here For Ku Klux Parade

The mountaineers of West Virginia will invade Washington today several thousand strong to march in the parade of the Ku Klux Klan down Pennsylvania avenue.

West Virginia delegates were found in every hotel in the city last night. The mountaineers are among the most ardent supporters of the klan. It is reported that one West Virginia district near Clifton Forge with a population of 2,000, has 1,000 klansmen, and that they all are on their way to Washington this morning, traveling mostly in cars.

Klansmen March as Cross.

Klansmen of Bridgeport, Conn., plan to march in the parade today 800 strong in the formation of a human cross, it was reported last night.

Woman Run Down by Car.

Lucile Matthews, colored, 29 years old, 3026 M street northwest, received a fractured collarbone last night when she was struck by a Capital Traction Co. street car while crossing M street at Twenty-ninth street northwest. She was treated at Emergency hospital, and was later arrested by police of the Seventh precinct and charged with intoxication.

PATROLMAN, WOUNDED, SHOOTS MAN TO DEATH

Assailant Resists Officers and Slashes With Knife Until Stopped by Bullets.

Shot four times by Policeman Clement L. Smith of the Sixth precinct, at New Jersey avenue and I street northwest, last night, Arthur Mitchell, colored, 28 years old, 58 Myrtle street northeast, died an hour later in Casualty hospital.

Before shooting the man, Smith said he was slashed across the right arm with a knife by Mitchell. The knife severed an artery in his arm. Dr. Joseph Rogers, of Casualty hospital, closed the wound with 55 stitches. Smith, although weak from loss of blood, will recover, Dr. Rogers said.

Mitchell engaged in an argument with his wife at Second and I street northwest, police reported. Mrs. Mitchell fled to New Jersey avenue and I street. Smith, accompanied by Policeman John F. Boxwell, arrived at the scene, they said, and found Mitchell threatening his wife with a knife. Raymond Bell, colored, 703 Fourth street northwest, police said, also was arguing.

Boxwell caught hold of Mitchell and told him he was under arrest. Mitchell broke away and ran toward Smith, it was reported, and slashed him on the arm. Smith told him to drop the knife, he said. Mitchell again lunged toward him, slashing with the knife. Smith again ordered the man to drop the knife and when he made another threatening gesture, he fired six times.

Mitchell was struck in the chest over the heart, twice in the abdomen and in the left hip. Both injured men were removed to the hospital in a passing automobile. Bell was taken to the Sixth precinct by Boxwell and charged with intoxication.

Sealed Lips to Mark March of Klansmen

Knights of the Ku Klux Klan and klanswomen who will march in the parade today will turn their faces toward the Treasury building when they swing into Pennsylvania avenue at Peace monument, and will not turn their heads to pass words with any of the watchers along the line.

Grand dragons of the State realms have issued strict orders not to speak while marching. An effort is being made to have only the klan regalia, without ornaments, in the lineup. Members in many cases have been ordered to wear no pins, buttons or badges.

Man Stricken at Station.

Stricken with uremic poisoning when he alighted from a train in the Union station yesterday, Henry Oaks, 62 years old, of Allentown, Pa., was removed to Casualty hospital in a critical condition. He was en route from Florida to his home. He asked that his son, Charles Oaks, of Allentown, be notified of his condition.

SLEUTH TURNS OUTING INTO AUTO THIEF CHASE

Alligood, Driving With Family, Starts Wild Ride After Fleeing Motorcar.

3 CAUGHT IN FOOTRACE

Business comes before pleasure for Headquarters Detective Frank Alligood. He started out yesterday for a quiet little drive with his wife and son, and ended the jaunt with a thrilling chase for what he believed to be a stolen automobile. The chase lasted an hour and netted three colored prisoners.

Alligood noticed the car at Second and D streets northeast. When he started atfer the car, it speeded up to 45 miles an hour. He drove his car through alleys and streets in pursuit, stopping but once to let Mrs. Alligood, his wife, out of the car, for fear it would turn over. His 15-year-old son, Frank, jr., stayed with him. Abandoning their car, the three negroes sought to run away. They were captured after a foot race by Alligood and several citizens who joined in the chase.

The three men gave their names as Lewis Smallwood, 24 McCullough place northwest; Isaac Ruffin, 32 G street northeast, and Sismond Jones, 340 Army street southwest. Two youths, who assisted in the arrest of the first two, were: Werner Hughes, 807 Tenth street northeast, and William Kirk, 808 Tenth street northeast. J. C. Kerr, an automobile salesman, of 131 B street southeast, captured the third man.

Capital Jews Observe Yom Kippur This Week

The holiest day in the Jewish religious calendar, Yom Kippur, or the day of atonement, which falls ten days after Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year, will be observed in local synagogues Friday evening and Saturday.

Yom Kippur follows the ten days of penitence, which begins with the New Year. The penitence is a preparation for the atonement. A feature of the devotions will be the memorial service for the dead. The day of atonement is considered a "Sabbath of Solemn Rest," and on this day all loyal Jews, both orthodox and reform, abstain from all work and business, food and drink and pleasure.

Woman Hurt in Crash; Autoist Pays $25 Fine

Following a collision on the Baltimore pike, in which a woman was injured and two automobiles wrecked, Eddie Smallwood, colored, 709 Kenyon street northwest, was fined $25 and costs by Judge George Phillips in Berwyn yesterday.

Smallwood's car was in collision with an automobile driven by Daniel E. Smith, 744 Lennard street, Baltimore, Md., when the former is alleged to have made a sharp turn at Muirkirk, Md. Mrs. Smith received cuts on the head from flying glass. Taken to Riverdale in a passing car, she was treated by Dr. R. A. Bennett.

ROBBERS CRACK SAFE OF STORE; TAKE $226

Watchman Nabs Man Waiting in Auto, but Passers-By Let Him Escape.

Police are searching for three men who perpetrated a daring robbery at the Star Clothing Co. store, 825 Seventh street northwest, yesterday. Theodore Nicks, 1202 Fifth street northwest, the night watchman, discovered the men at work on the safe in the store about 4 o'clock in the morning.

Two men were on the inside at the safe and a colored man was seated in an automobile outside, with engine running. Nicks arrested the negro and called on two men who were passing to hold him. He then went into the store after the two safecrackers but they had been warned by the commotion outside and had escaped after looting the safe of $226.

When he returned to the sidewalk he found that the driver of the car also had succeeded in escaping.

ROB ROY AND DIXIE PLACE

Capt. Royden Williamson received a new grip on the Rock Creek challenge cup yesterday, when his mare, Becky Sharpe, completed the Rock Creek jumps with a perfect score on the resumption of the Rock Creek Hunt club's Sunday hurdles events.

Capt. Williamson already was in possession of the title "cup defender," but his previous score was marred by one fault. He will retain the title now until his perfect score is equalled. Then a jump-off will be arranged.

Rob Roy, owned by E. R. Heinrich, placed second yesterday, with 4 faults, while Miss Mattie M. Stevens' Dixie carried off third honors, scoring 9 faults. Blue, red and yellow ribbons were awarded the winners by Miss Adelaide Henry.

Other entries included F. C. Montuori's Swifty, E. E. Adamson's Lady Jane, J. Dallas Grady's Webb, and Crescent, of the E. R. Heinrich stables.

Under the chairmanship of F. C. Montuori the club will continue to hold the hurdles contests every Sunday morning at 11:30 o'clock until the National Capital horse show in the spring. At that time the challenge cup will be awarded to its permanent owner. None except owners who have entered horses in at least a third of the weekly contests will be permitted to compete for the cup in the final event.

SEIZED LACE FOUND ON NUNS IS TRACED BY CUSTOMS MEN

Landed in Quebec by Two Belgians, Says Vermont District Collector.

35 POUNDS IN WEIGHT, VALUE IS SET HIGH

Detained Sisters Surprised at Getting No Word From Convents.

St. Albans, Vt., Sept. 12 (By A. P.).—A rich haul of Breton lace found hidden in the clothing of four nuns, who were taken off a train at Richford yesterday, has been traced to a shipment landed at Quebec on August 15, customs officials here claimed tonight. The nuns, members of three Massachusetts communities, are detained under guard at a hotel for hearing tomorrow afternoon.

Collector Harry G. Whitehill, of the Vermont customs district, communicated with Montreal and Quebec authorities, and later said he believed the lace seized here was all or part of a shipment brought to Quebec on the steamship Empress of Scotland by two Belgians. It was valued at 350,000 francs.

No Word Received.

The nuns, who gave their names as Sisters Isarr and Perfetu Locoro, of St. Anthony's convent, Fall River; Sister Sagrado, mother superior of the Convent of Our Lady Glory, New Bedford, and Sister Des Oliviers, of the Convent of Our Lady of Good Help, East Boston, were allowed to attend mass today under guard. Sister Des Oliviers, speaking for the entire party, expressed surprise that no word had been received from their convents. A Burlington lawyer was retained last night for their defense.

Appraisal of the lace, which was found sewed in the clothing of the women, was in progress tonight. The contraband weighed 35 pounds. Some patent medicines of French manufacture also were seized.

Material Superfine.

F. D. Aberthny, an importer, who viewed the lace today, said he never had seen finer material in his travels in Europe. He said the lace was manufactured in Belgium, Alsace-Lorraine and Brittany. Some of the handkerchiefs included in the seizure were appraised at $50 a dozen.

The four nuns tonight held to their declaration of yesterday, that they had obtained the petticoats, into which the lace was sewed, at a Montreal convent and were unaware of the presence of the contraband. The nuns are members of the Order of Franciscan Sisters.

Cuba Bans Cigar Machines.

Havana, Cuba, Sept. 12 (By A. P.). The attempt to introduce machines for the mechanical manufacture of cigars into Cuba has been abandoned, owing to protests of the cigarmakers union, backed up by the Cuban authorities. The municipality had voted a tax of $20,000 to $100,000 on the machines.

Charges by Mussolini Cause French Protest

(Special Cable Dispatch.)

Paris, Sept. 12.—The French charge d'affaires at Rome was instructed today to protest to the Italian government against the officially inspired article in the Giornale D'Italia, of Rome, which practically blamed France for the attempt on Premier Benito Mussolini's life yesterday on the grounds that the would-be assassin, though an Italian citizen, came from Marseilles.

This charge, as well as Premier Mussolini's pointed allusions to "the hatred abroad" in his speech from the Chigi palace balcony last night, has aroused profound resentment in France.

The semiofficial Temps, in its leading article, remarks that when the Italian, Casserio, in 1894 assassinated President Sadi Carnot, nobody in France thought of laying the blame at Italy's door.

SIX WOMEN WITH GUNS TRAIL ROBBER OF GIRLS

Ordered to Shoot Thief Who Leaps Upon Victims in Chicago Suburbs.

POLICE AWAIT SHOOTING

Special to The Washington Post.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—Six resolute policewomen, who do not shrink at the sight of blood or the smell of gunpowder, were sent into the Summerdale district, with magazine pistols in open handbags, with explicit instructions to decoy and kill a man who has robbed a number of women and little girls. In addition, a squad of detectives were assigned to the district, but their duty was to hang around the fringes, to be on hand when and if any shooting began.

Four women were seized, and robbed Friday and three more cases were reported last night. The man is described as about 20 to 25 years of age, tall and wearing a mask over the lower part of his face. In each case he brandished a revolver in the face of his victims with one hand, and clutched their throats with the other, to prevent them crying out for help. In three of the attacks he had succeeded in dragging his victims into the heavy underbrush, but they were saved by passing pedestrians. In every case the women were robbed of all their money and jewelry. The robber is known in the district as the "cat" because of his custom of springing upon his victim from clumps of shrubbery and overpowering them before they can set up an alarm.

The policewomen sent out tonight, are under orders to shoot first and ask questions afterward.

Bishop Gailor to See Johns Hopkins Doctor

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 12 (By A. P.).—The Rt. Rev. Thomas F. Gailor, bishop of Tennessee, left today for Baltimore, where he will have a diagnosis at Johns Hopkins for a chronic throat trouble from which he has been suffering. Bishop Gailor was in Nashville a week ago for an examination and since that time he has been under the care of physicians at Sewanee, his summer home.

Bishop Gailor has been head of the diocese of Tennessee since 1898, and from 1919 until 1925 he was president of the national council of the Episcopal Church.

MUSSOLINI CHEERED BY CROWD ON SPOT BOMB WAS HURLED

Rome Throngs Wait Hours in Hot Sun for Sight of the Dictator.

FELICITATIONS SENT BY GREAT AND LOWLY

Press Thinks Assailant Is Tool of Huge Plot to Crush Fascism.

Rome, Sept. 12 (By A. P.).—Il Duce was acclaimed today by adoring crowds on the spot where 24 hours before he had escaped death at the hands of a would-be assassin.

The calm courage of Premier Mussolini when his life was threatened by a bomb hurled by an anarchist roused popular admiration to a high pitch, and thousands of persons stood for hours in the suffocating heat, unprotected from a burning sun, before the Chigi palace to catch a glimpse of the fascist idol as he entered and left his offices.

Sitting alone in his automobile, the premier insisted that he be driven past the spot where yesterday morning Ermete Giovannini hurled the bomb at him. As the car passed by the scene of the attempted assassination the crowds gathered at the spot cheered wildly.

Mussolini, evidently pleased with the manifestations of affection, returned the greeting with the Roman salute, stretching out his right arm in his characteristic manner.

The palace was flooded today with messages of congratulations and flowers, sent by sovereign heads of states and by humblest of individuals from all parts of the world.

Cabinet members who were outside of Rome at the time of the attempt on the premier's life hurried back today, using automobiles and airplanes to return to the side of their leader.

Would Use War Trick.

One of them said to Mussolini:

"Thank God, the would-be assassin's aim was no better, or the bomb actually would have entered the car."

"In that case," Il Duce replied, dramatically, "I would have picked it up and thrown it back at my assailant, as was done during the war."

Giovannini, the Roman press asserts, is shielding his accomplices in a wider plot to remove the premier and end the fascist regime.

The youthful would-be assassin still insisted to the police today that he was "an individualist anarchist," and that he acted solely on his own initiative. Giovannini told the police he crossed the frontier near Ventimille on September 9, purchased the two bombs and a revolver after entering the country, and then came at once to Rome, arriving by train only two hours before he tried to kill the premier.

Flaws Seen in Story.

The newspapers assert, however, that the frontiers are watched so closely it is almost impossible for any one to enter without a passport; that it was improbable that Giovannini could find within two days an armorer ready to sell the bombs and revolver and that he could not have learned in two days in Rome the route followed by the premier on his way to his office and the time he would pass the scene of the attempt, as well as being able to recognize so readily the premier's car.

A young girl who passed the spot a few minutes before asserted that she saw the young man arrive in a yellow automobile with four other men. The fascisti who helped arrest Giovannini stated he was speaking with two other individuals before Mussolini's approach.

Il Messagero declared today that the police are on the trail of a vast plot hatched abroad, adding the belief that Ermete Giovannini is not the prisoner's name and that he arrived in Rome a week ago.

Warren D. Robbins, counselor of the American embassy, went to the Chigi palace today and presented a telegram from Secretary of State Kellogg, congratulating Premier Mussolini on his escape. The premier greatly appreciated the Secretary's message and extended his warm thanks.

COL. CRANDALL DIES; AT 94 WAS OLDEST FEDERAL EMPLOYE

Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue Served Under Stonewall Jackson.

LONG NEWSPAPER MAN; FOUNDED NATIONAL VIEW

Punctual in His Work Here; On Vacation Only Three Days in 13 Years.

Col. Lee Crandall, the oldest employe in the Federal service, former newspaper man and soldier, died yesterday at his home, 1832 Calvert street northwest. His career has been long and eventful during the 94 years of his life. For many years he has been deputy collector of internal revenue here. He worked at his office until two days before his death.

Col. Crandall served throughout the civil war, and, unlike many Confederate veterans, his title was not an honorary one, but was won through his gallantry with Stonewall Jackson's army. He was captured by the "Yankees" twice. Once, wounded through the wrist, he led his captors into his own lines and they were captured, a whole company. The second time he was placed in prison at Camp Charles, Ohio, where he remained until the end of the war.

Newspaper Man in New York.

When first talk of secession began, Lee Crandall was a newspaper man from New York, writing a series of articles on the South and its problems. He voted against secession, but when Louisiana seceded, he threw his lot with his adopted State and organized the "Rapides Invincibles," of which he was made captain. With his company he served at the first battle of Bull Run. He was officer of the day the next day and was in charge of the burial of the dead.

After his release from prison the colonel went to New Orleans, La., from which place he emigrated to Valhermoso Springs, Ala., where he met and married Miss Harriet M. Giers. The colonel went to New York in 1873 and obtained a position on the New York Daily Graphic, the first illustrated newspaper. He was in charge of the Graphic bureau at the centennial celebration at Philadelphia in 1876.

In 1879 he founded the National View here, which he was editor of until 1894 when he went to Alabama, where he was active in politics and ran for Congress against Joseph Wheeler, who defeated him. Later he returned to Washington and accepted a position in the internal revenue service, where he was always the first man to reach his desk in the morning and from which he has taken but three days vacation in 13 years.

Knew Many Prominent Men.

He has probably had a personal acquaintance with more distinguished people of this country and foreign countries in his long and active life than any man living. He was an able exponent of William Jennings Bryan, of whom he was an intimate, and battled with the great Commoner for free silver.

Col. Crandall is survived by the widow, three sons, Lee Crandall, jr., and Jean J. Crandall, of Washington, and Theodore Crandall, of Seattle, Wash., and a daughter, Mrs. Frances Hinsdale, of Seattle, and seven grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at the residence Tuesday. They will be in charge of the local camp of the Confederate Veterans, of which he was commander for many years. Interment will be in the Confederate section of Arlington National cemetery, where the colonel will be laid to rest in the gray uniform he loved and in accordance with his last wishes.

STORY THAT CONVICTED JONES BROTHERS DENIED

Plea for Parole Is Said to Be Based on New Affidavit by U. S. Witness.

COPY SENT TO COOLIDGE

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 12 (By A. P.). The Atlanta Constitution today says that radical changes in the story of Jesse Baker, who was one of the prime factors in the conviction of Neufield Jones and Winfield Jones, brothers, for conspiracy to violate the prohibition law in Baltimore last September, form the basis on which the two prisoners are making their bids for parole from the Atlanta Federal prison. Baker was manager of the Maryland Drug & Chemical Co., owned by the Jones brothers.

The brothers appeared before the parole board at the prison yesterday with their plea, where their cases were taken under advisement. They began two-year sentences imposed upon them last June.

A photostatic copy of Baker's affidavit was presented at the hearing and the original forwarded to President Coolidge. The affidavit was said by the paper to be completely at variance with testimony given at the trial by Baker and in large measure absolves them of blame for conditions at the plant of the Maryland Chemical & Drug Co., which they bought, that led to their arrest, trial and conviction.

The Jones brothers at their trial contended they purchased the Maryland Drug & Chemical Co. in the knowledge of Federal prohibition agents for the purpose of securing evidence against "higher ups" among bootleggers.

The Federal paroles board, the Constitution will say, is now faced with the problem of determining which of Baker's stories were true.

The Jones brothers are sons of the Rev. Dr. C. O. Jones, for many years officially connected with the Antisaloon league of Georgia, and a prominent Methodist minister.

GORSLINE MAY ADD TO TALE OF MURDER

happens so long as they get the right people," said Mills.

The Mills home has changed little since his wife was killed, except that there is new oilcloth on the kitchen table, a radio set by a window and a gas range on top of the old-fashioned stove, where Eleanor Mills cooked for him and their two children.

Charlotte was missing from the family group today.

"Oh, Charlotte's away. She's been in New York for three weeks," Mills volunteered.

Tuesday Is Anniversary.

No longer the caretaker of the Church of St. John the Evangelist, where romance developed between his wife and the rector, Mills earns a living now being caretaker at a nearby school. He was reminded that Tuesday would be the fourth anniversary of the murder.

"Sure enough, that's right!" he said in his off-hand way. "It's lucky I was home that night. I mightn't 'abeen, but my wife, she had peeled peaches for us that night. Some of them weren't ripe and they did not agree with me." My wife said, 'Go out and fix the window boxes for Mrs. Hall.' Maybe she told me that so I don't know what she's up to. Any way, I go out on the stoop and work, and she goes down the steps, and I ask her where she's going. And she laughs and says, careless like, 'Why don't you follow me and see?'"

Fascist Deputy Is Beaten By Fellow Black Shirts

(Special Cable Dispatch.)

Rome, Sept. 12.—While quiet prevailed generally in Italy today, bands of black shirt rioters this morning broke into the Santa Marinella summer house of the fascist deputy, Attilio Susi, who, though a bona-fide supporter of Premier Mussolini, was attacked because he formerly was a friend of Signor Rossi, who turned antifascist and is now a refugee in Paris.

Susi was beaten up by the black shirts and his villa was ransacked for incriminating documents.

Police were called in to protect Signor Susi and several of the rioters were arrested.

STEUER WILL QUIZ U. S. KEY WITNESS IN DAUGHERTY CASE

Both Sides Seek to Make Use of Merton's Testimony on $7,000,000 Claim.

BUCKNER IS EXPECTED TO REEXAMINE GERMAN

Propriety of Paying $441,000 "Commission" to King Is in Dispute.

New York, Sept. 12 (By A. P.). The government and the defense prepared today for the battle of attorneys expected tomorrow with the resumption of the Daugherty-Miller trial.

When Richard Merton, the German metal capitalist who has been called the government's star witness, resumes the stand in the morning, legal authorities predicted today, the defense counsel will make a decided attempt to take him away from the prosecution.

Merton has testified that he paid a $441,000 "commission" to the late John T. King to obtain the return of $7,000,000 in impounded alien assets. United States Attorney Buckner has charged that this sum was a bribe and was split with the defendants, Harry M. Daugherty and Col. Thomas W. Miller, who were Attorney General and alien property custodian, respectivley, at the time the assets were restored to Merton on their authority. The two former officials are charged with fraudulent conspiracy.

Claim Legal, Merton Said.

Both the government and the defense attorneys are playing a skillful strategy in their legal fight to make Merton's testimony count for themselves, it was said. Buckner has induced Merton to testify the money was paid to King at a champagne dinner in the Ritz in return for services rendered in obtaining the return of the assets.

William S. Rand, counsel for Miller, in cross-examining Merton, drew from him the assertion that he believed his claim to the impounded assets was entirely legal and proper and that the sum paid King was in the nature of a "commission" to save possible fees and to prevent the matter from reaching the courts for a protracted delay. Buckner, who has not questioned his witness as to the propiety of the claims, is expected to examine Merton tomorrow on this and allied points.

Max Steuer, counsel for Daugherty, who has not yet cross-examined the German metal capitalist, is expected to question the witness tomorrow in an effort to show that his relations with Daugherty and Miller were innocent.

SHOOT-TO-KILL ORDER GOES TO MAIL CLERKS

railway mail clerk who kills any one attempting to rob a railway postoffice, and also promised a reward for any railway mail clerk who captured any one attempting to hold up a railway postoffice car. While he feels his men are doing everything possible to protect the mails, he believes the further incentive of a reward of a couple of months' salary on the side will help.

There were fourteen major robberies in the year which ended June 30 last. These resulted in the loss of $1,408,540, and Chief Simmons and his force of inspectors already have succeeded in recovering $760,634 of the money. In the last two years there have been 65 convictions of mail robbers in major cases. The robbers received an average sentence of 16 3-5 years each. One was sent to the penitentiary for 50 years, 30 for 25 years, 7 for 15 years, 3 for 12 years and 2 for 10 years.

Much Loot Recovered.

Among holdups which the department's inspectors have been called to run down was the Leonard street mail truck robbery in New York city in October, 1921, when Gerald Chapman and "Dutch" Anderson stole $1,600,000, all of which was recovered. Another was the Rondout, Ill., holdup in 1924, when $2,000,000 was stolen. Of this, $1,657,000 was recovered, and three of the bandits sentenced to 25 years, three to 12 years, one to 3 years, and another to 1 year.

In the Rawlins, Wyo., holdup of August 14 last, eight persons were arrested, and of the $227,000 stolen all but $500 was recovered, while six have ben convicted of the Los Angeles holdup and $599,000 of the $609,000 stolen has been recovered.

Postal inspectors are still on the lookout for and expect some day to land the three De Autremont brothers who blew up a Southern Pacific train near Siskiyou, Ore., killing a mail clerk and shooting and killing three trainmen. They secured no loot.

OFFERINGS AT THE THEATERS

BELASCO

Shubert-Belasco presents Anne Nichols' hardy perennial, "Abie's Irish Rose," a comedy in three acts, at Shubert-Belasco theater.

THE CAST.

Isaac Cohen.....Harry Marks Stewart
Mrs. Isaac Cohen.....Mildred Elliott
Dr. Jacob Samuels.....Charles W. Guthrie
Solomon Levy.....Joseph Greenwald
Abraham Levy (his son).....Walter Vaughn
Rosemary Murphy.....Elsie Nichols
Patrick Murphy.....Philip Lord
Father Whalen.....George Callahan
Bridesmaids—Misses Dorothy Major, Sara Sparks, Edith Ferris and Edna Walker.
Train Bearer.....Katherine Brooks

Let the humor remain where it is—in the lines; no attempt shall be made to criticize the play. Yet for the benefit of those yet to be born and those now grown—then in their teens—when Patrick Joseph and Rebecca made their first debut, a word should be said. "Abie" has more than humor, more than pathos; it has a human quality and a lesson in spiritual nobility that is beyond and above the pettiness of mortals. And that is why, perhaps, that "Abie's Irish Rose" lives on and on, why it has poured into the lap of its authoress many millions of shekels, pence and dollars.

Human nature can not resist an appeal to its better side; it can not resist wit turned against intolerance nor good sense striving to ride down prejudice. And that is what "Abie's Irish Rose" does. The Cohens are still Cohens and the Murphys still Murphys when the last curtain is rung down, but the hearts of all are human hearts that beat as one when the master force of love creeps beneath door and through cranny and crevice into the bosoms of old, lovable Solomn Levy and bristling Patrick Murphy.

celebration at Philadelphia in 1876.

A terse critic would possibly cry for stronger personalities in "Abie" and "Rosy;" but children of a whim of fate, whose fathers are guests of passion sweeping them hither and yon, they are not, when all is said and done, immaturely cast. They are chaff in the wind of an inscrutable lesson, and serve their roles well. Miss Nichols and Mr. Vaughn grow on the audience from curtain to curtain as their lives grow.

The remainder of the cast is all that could be desired; the laughs are abundant, with tense moments here and there routed by small sallies, which, like tiny whirlwinds, spring suddenly up and carry aloft the minds, the hearts, the spirits of all. Three hours of abundant life is in store for all at the Belasco this week.

J. L. C.

KEITH'S

Despite the fact that some clown in the bleachers saw fit to guffaw at a very noble bit of acting by the equally noble Andalusian, the original and only Trini—from sunny Spain—started off this week's bill at Keith's in first class shape. Needless to say, Trini is the headliner, and after witnessing her act—which is, for the most part, new—one is convinced that hers should be the stellar position on the bill. And it isn't the dancing, or the singing, or the efforts of the Betancourt Marimba band that puts the piece across—it's just the fact that it's Trini.

The deuce spot on this week's program is held by the ventriloquist, Arthur Prince who, assisted by Jim and a yeoman, brings to town a new act of particular merit for an effort of this sort.

Willie, West and McGinty, who in the opinion of this critic delineate the most comical slapstick pantomime in vaudeville, are back again with their inimitable "house builders"—an act that surpasses even the best efforts of the Sennett movie lot.

Ben Ryan and Harriet Lee are on the bill with "One and Won Is To," a vague billing for a very noval skit. The offering is replete with humor and some dancing.

The Misses Erma and Lucille Iverson, two very young vaudevillians, present a sister act (or brother-sister?) that has a touch of Kitty Doner about it. They were very well received. The "Nifty Turn" was more or less a dance number, but the whole affair registered well.

The Misses Stanton and Dolores open the bill with "Girls, Nevertheless." Frank Farron, a dealer in laughs, presents some stories—old and new; and the Arco brothers, in "Athletic Artistry," bring the vaudeville portion to a close.

Usual house features, including Aesop's fable, Topics of the Day and newsreel round out the bill.

AMBASSADOR

Kathryn Perry and Allan Forrest are the "Helen and Warren" of William Fox's two-reel picturization of Mabel Herbert Urner's "Easy Payments," being shown as foremost supplementary attraction at Crandall's Ambassador theater the first three days of the present week, beginning yesterday at 3 and continuing through tomorrow.

Abbreviated camera subjects and sterling pipe organ music round out a bill of which the major feature is First National's production of "Into Her Kingdom," starring Corinne Griffith.

PALACE

Crowds that packed Loew's Palace to capacity yesterday and last night manifested their keen pleasure in the change of policy at that theater, applauding, at times almost to the point of cheers, the offerings of Vincent Lopez and his famous Casa Lopez orchestra, and the violin solos of David Rubinoff, guest conductor. Sharing honors with these two events was Norma Shearer, the delectable miss who stars for Metro-Goldwyn-Meyer, in her latest offering, "The Waning Sex."

It was like walking into a new theater. The physical changes in the house are marked and add greatly to the appearance of the downstairs section. The arrangement of the orchestra allows it to work to much greater advantage than before.

The Lopez orchestra, headed by Vincent Lopez in person, has improved with age. Always one of the foremost musical aggregations in America, it offered yesterday a varied program of jazz of a distinct type that kept the audiences begging for more. Changes have been made in the personnel since its last appearance here, but they have been for the better. Mr. Lopez gave a piano solo and an encore yesterday at each performance, and the band offered several new selections orchestrated in the distinct Lopez style.

Rubinoff was warmly applauded when, as guest conductor, he led the Palace orchestra in several extra numbers and again received applause following his solo offerings. If there were a criticism to offer, it would be that he played a jazz number on the violin just ahead of one of the finest jazz bands in the country, making the contrast keen. He is a master of the violin, however, and a conductor of rare ability.

Beautiful Norma Shearer is at her best in "The Waning Sex," a story of a young woman attorney and her attempts to match wits with the district attorney, ably portrayed by Conrad Nagel. Of course the love element enters in and the final fadeout shows the usual happy ending.

The usual house subsidiaries make this one of the best bills seen in Washington for many days and would seem to insure the success of the new policy at the Palace.

EARLE

The bill being presented at the Earle theater this week is one of the best shown this year. "The Dance Club," a music revue, shown amid varied colors, with plenty of music and pretty girls, who dance well, shares honors on the bill with "Jerry's Piano Girls," who present "Bits of Dream Music." In the former act Day and Aileen sure carry it through with a "wow" with some fast and wonderful dancing. The costuming greatly adds to the beauty of the revue. In the latter the girls take on the colonial costuming effects, their piano playing is well done and their singing pretty, the low voices adding charm to the setting.

Gibson and Price in their little skit, "Comedy Novelty," were very entertaining; Walter Brower, as "the jolly jester," could leave some of his "jests" out, but as a whole he was good, and the act "In the Dark," given by Calvin and O'Conner, assisted by Ann Vesey, did not appeal to this reviewer; there is nothing to it.

"The Last Frontier" is another step in the perfection of photographic art; the scenes of the stampeding buffalo herds are especially remarkable. The story is a vivid picture of the pioneer days, when the enmity of the Indians was roused with such dire consequences by the white man's invasion into their lands.

It is the story in particular of Beth Halliday (Marguerite de la Motte) who had come West to join her fiance. En route Beth's parents are killed by the Indians, and in her grief she lays the blame on Tom, her fiance (played by William Boyd), because it had been at his persuasion that they had taken the perilous journey. Harboring this resentment against Tom, Beth refuses to see him and finds shelter at the home of Lige Morris, a secret agent of the Indians. The Indian enmity, the treachery of Lige, add interest to the romantic plot and bring the story to a dynamic climax. J. Farrell MacDonald, Bally Rund and Gladys Brockwell also have leading roles.

Due to the length of the feature picture, "The Last Frontier," other film runs were omitted. The overture, "Barcelona," by the orchestra, and Mr. Aarons' concert on the organ were enjoyable.

STRAND

From the picture to the really fine performance of the Volga Singers, the Strand is showing a choice menu of theatrical fare this week. The laugh end of the bill is upheld by three acts stuffed full of big grin medicine. The Volga Singers don't sing in half-hearted fashions. They put all the intensity and loveliness of six intelligently trained voices into everything they sang. Naturally they had a hard time getting off the stage at the end of the turn.

Personality is scribbled all over Mary Danis' bright little person, and it is shown during her act, especially when she did a characterization of the "Neighborhood Gossip." Harry Savoy made a big success of the laugh business with a queer dumbbell number in which Ruth Mann fed the raw material right handily. That good looking girl of the Chandon Trio, acrobats, must have the strength of four men. She held the man and a girl on a pole suspended from her neck while she hung by her knees 20 feet up—and that was only part of an odd and well done turn. "Hickey" Le Van made a hit with his moonshinish number. He and Lettie Bolles can think up wonderfully crazy ways of doing and saying ordinary things.

METROPOLITAN

Folks who recall with fond memory the one and only Corinne Griffith in such former excellents as "Mlle. Modiste," "Classified," and a host of other fine productions, will, no doubt, lead the cheering when the comforting word is broadcast that she has been translated to the Russian, and is holding forth at the Metropolitan in "Into Her Kingdom," this week's headline attraction.

"Into Her Kingdom" follows in the van of the recent Russian invasion—it is, of course, a story of castles in Petrograd and six-room apartments in Jersey City. The story takes a somewhat decent departure from the stock form of Russian production. Miss Griffith is, naturally, delineated as the Grand Duchess Tatiana—and she does nobly by the assignment. The story is outstanding in the item: it is interesting. It is simply the story, or legend, of the former grand duchess who, when the royal family is murdered, escapes the general butchery only to be married to a soviet commisar. As the story progresses the fact is revealed that these twain gradually form a liking for one another and at the denouement everything is apparently lovely in Jersey City.

A new leading man, Einar Hanson, is introduced to the public in this latest effort of Miss Griffith. Claude Gillingwater and others of more or less note contribute their share in putting the piece across.

As a movie, "Into Her Kingdom" ranks along with the interesting ones of the season. It starts off with a hint of "Volgaboatman-ism," but before it is over the blase fan is more or less convinced that here is a new and entirely satisfactory picture—and the fact that Corinne Griffith is starred makes it more than interesting.

Miss MacGuigan is a real artiste. Her first number yesterday was the "Spanish Dance, No. 8," of Sarazate, which was followed by Victor Herbert's always welcome, "Kiss Me Again," from "Mlle. Modiste," and Drigo's "Valse Bluette." Miss MacGuigan displayed admirable technique and a tonal quality that stamps her an artiste of immense promise, who at the present point of development of her art may be relied upon to sway any audience to her mood.

The concert overture for the week is a composite of the Kreisler compositions that have proved most popular, and includes two special arrangements by Fred Starke, of the symphony conducted by Mr. Breeskin.

CENTRAL

Estelle Taylor, who in private life is Mrs. Jack Dempsey, wife of the heavyweight champion, is pictured star of the bill the first two days of this week at Crandall's Central theater in "Wandering Footsteps," a new release in which the costellar role is played by Bryant Washburn. A fine cast is seen in support of this pair and the production is one that centers interest throughout its length and impresses with the scrupulous perfection of its investiture.

The comedy for the first bill of the week at the Central is furnished by the juvenile members of "Our Gang," in Hal Roach's two-reel riot, "Uncle Tom's Uncle." Another auxiliary attraction of conspicuous worth is the sixth lesson in the visualized trickery of dancing the Charleston. Added short reels and pipe organ music of tuneful appeal round out the bill.

TIVOLI

Florence Vidor, supported by a cast of excellent selection, is the pictured star of the first bill of the new week at Crandall's Tivoli theater today and tomorrow, the title of the vehicle having been chosen with a rare flair for honesty—"You Never Know Women." This new comedy-drama engaged the interested attention of capacity houses yesterday and elicited expressions both of intense amusement and genuine dramatic suspense. The companion attraction to be shown through today is Mack Sennett's laughable two-reel comedy, "Fight Night," in addition to which are shown the latest issue of the Pathe review and a new release of the popular "Topics of the Day."

The program is further augmented by pipe organ accompaniment and solo interludes, contributed by Otto F. Beck and Ida V. Clarke.

GAYETY

"Mutt and Jeff's Honeymoon," Bud Fisher's cartoon comedy, is the show that opened at Mr. Lamotte's Ninth street town hall yesterday afternoon. It's a nice enough one with some hard-working boys and girls who do their best to put it over.

Lola Pierce, the pretty little brunette, who sings and dances, vies with Margie Bartel in getting the encores. They each have a solo number which holds up the show. Sid Gold sings well, especially in the mammy songs. Joe Yule, the comedian, is a funny female impersonator, and they have a male quartet which is very good.

The setting and costumes are fine and a jewel number is rather dazzling.

The show was produced under the direction of Arthur Clamage, and the musical numbers and ensembles are by Etta Donnelly.

5 Are Severely Cut In Race Disturbance

Middletown, Ohio, Sept. 12 (By A. P.).—Four white men and one negro were severely cut in a fight here between whites and negroes following altercation that arose as the two factions were leaving dance place in the same neighborhood early today.

COLUMBIA

The glory of youth, the conquest of love, might fittingly be the caption of Rudolph Valentino's latest magnificent picture, "The Son of the Sheik," now showing at the Columbia theater. For never was he, who as held the movie populace—especially the feminine portion of it—on its knees for a decade before his shrine, cast in a finer or more personal role than in this, his last picture. And the crowds pouring into the Columbia attest it. A veritable stream marked the attendance with the beginning of the first matinee performance yesterday until night.

"The Son of the Sheik" is the thrilling story of Ahmed, son of a famous father in the sheiking business, and a dancing girl. There is stolen love in the moonlight of a ruin on the desert, a villainous plot to destroy the love for sinister purposes by a member of the band of thieves with which the girl is associated, a triumph over the villainy, a wild fight in the thieves' rendezvous, and a mad rescue of a terrified maiden in the heart of a desert.

The acting of Valentino is at high crest. His handsome features and dark, bending eyes pervade the film's entire length. Vilma Banky supports him delightfully throughout the miles of ribbon, dancing her way with grace and abandon into the hearts of an overflowing audience. George Fawcett, Montague Love, Charles Dane and others ride and fight gloriously.

The play registers tremendous action—action reminiscent of that registered by Douglas Fairbanks—calling forth now and then bursts of applause from the youthful admirers of the departed hero, packing the long isles.

There are supplemental attractions, as usual, good ones, but in the crush to see "Rudie" all seemed lost, swallowed in a vast abysm of indifference. A very clever nationwide newsreel is remembered, and a very light comedy. Music, as usual, appropriate to the film theme, is rendered.

RIALTO

The age-old conflict between love and art is strikingly depicted in "The Marriage Clause," a Universal Jewell production, at the Rialto theater this week. The screen story made its first appearance yesterday afternoon in Washington and was enthusiastically received by a crowded house.

The costars, Francis X. Bushman and Billie Dove are no strangers to Washington, and they added new laurels to their wreaths of fine acting in this latest vehicle of their genius.

As Barry Townsend, Francis X. Bushman gave a convincing picture of a lover who sacrificed his own career in order to insure fame for Sylvia Jordan, beautifully acted by Billie Dove, actress on her way to stardom.

Miss Dove rose to real histrionic heights in her portrayal of the actress who had won all only to find in her contract a marriage clause which prohibited her marriage to the man for three years. Mr. Bushman displayed the gamut of human emotions in his enactment of the character of the director who sees his own fame dwindle as that of the genius of the woman he loved won her more and more plaudits.

The feminine portion of the audience was vastly entertained by an up-to-the-minute "Miladi's Fur Fashion Show" with ten lovely living models wearing garments furnished by the Saks Fur Co., outlining the coming season from the fur point of view. The exhibit was arranged and directed by Mischa Guterson with a musical setting which was most effective.

The Rialto Concert orchestra, conducted by Mischa Guterson, contributed its goodly share to the ensemble of enjoyment with the overture, "Vienna Beauties Waltz," by Ziehrer.

MUTUAL

"Moonlight Maids," another excellent exposition of real burlesque, opened at the Mutual yesterday for a week's run. The show stars Anna Toebe and Billy Hagan, although Buddie Nichols, a winsome soubrette, steals a lot of their thunder on several occasions.

Twice during the show, at the "Come and Take Me" and "Turkish Towel" numbers, both of which stopped the performance, the reviewer grew nervous, fearing that Miss Toebe was carrying the "few clothes for women" slogan of present-day times too far. It looked once as if she were going to do a Lady Godiva without the horse.

The comedy numbers of "Moonlight Maids" are good, the costuming fair and stage settings excellent. Taken as a whole, it's a good show and will be relished by lovers of burlesque.

8 STATES WILL VOTE TOMORROW, MARKING CLOSE OF PRIMARIES

Bitter Maryland Party Fight Stirs Much Interest in Capital.

IMPOSSIBLE TO PLACE WELLER-HILL RESULT

Calculations Fail to Cite Victory in Free State G. O. P. Battle.

Congressional primaries will be held in eight States tomorrow with the Maryland senatorial contest holding the center of national interest. These primaries will mark the end of the open season for nominations and both major parties then will launch their preelection contests for the control of the Seventieth Congress.

Other primaries will be held in Vermont, Washington, Colorado, Louisiana, Michigan, Maine and Massachusetts.

The Republican senatorial contest in Maryland between Senator O. E. Weller and Representative John Philip Hill, holds the chief interest because of the struggle and doubt of the outcome.

Calculations of the strength of both candidates give neither the advantage, and only the count of the votes Tuesday night will tell the story of victory.

Whoever wins the Republican nomination will be opposed in the November election by Representative Millard E. Tydings, the Democratic nominee. My Tydings is a young but active member of the House and has the undivided support of his party behind him.

Draws Liberal Support.

Mr. Hill, as the recognized leader of the wet cause in the House, draws his chief support from the liberal Republicans in Maryland, as well as from those opposed to prohibition.

Senator Weller has the support of a powerful city organization in Baltimore, as well as that of the more conservative Republicans throughout the State.

Gov. Ritchie, opposed by William M. Maloy in the Democratic gubernatorial race, will be renominated.

The senatorial candidates on both Republican and Democratic tickets in Vermont are unopposed for nomination. A triangular gubernatorial contest is the feature of greatest interest in the President's native State. Candidates for the Republican nomination are Judge John E. Weeks, Max L. Powell, lawyer and hotel owner, and Walter K. Farnsworth, lawyer. Vermont precedent prevented Gov. Franklin S. Billings from seeking renomination. Representative Elbert S. Brigham, of St. Albans, is the only Congressional candidate facing opposition.

Senator Wesley L. Jones is opposed by six candidates in the Washington primary. Senator Jones is a dry and he is opposed by Frank E. Hammond, a wet, and Austen E. Griffiths, a dry, for the Republican nomination, and by A. Scott Bullitt, Democratic candidate, whose campaign is based on an antiworld court position.

Representative John W. Miller, of Seattle, is opposed by James McCabe, Seattle attorney, whose platform is modification of the Volstead act. Representative Albert Johnson is the only other member of the lower house opposed in the primary. O. N. Nelson, of Montesano, Wash., who ran against him two years ago, is one of his opponents.

One of the bitterest senatorial contests in the history of Colorado will be settled at the polls in that State tomorrow.

Senator Means is opposed for renomination by Charles W. Waterman, Coolidge preconvention manager in Colorado two years ago, and by George Luxford, Denver county judge.

Control of the State Republican organization and the Ku Klux Klan are the main points of controversy. So bitter has been the fight over these two issues that it has overshadowed a similar contest in the Democratic party, where former Gov. William E. Sweet is opposed for the senatorial nomination by Paul Prosser, Denver lawyer, and by Frank J. Hayes, former head of the United Mine Workers of America.

Opposition For Groesbeck.

The gubernatorial contest occupies the center of interest in Michigan. Gov. Alex. J. Groesbeck is opposed for the nomination by Fred W. Green and William A. Comstock, Democratic national committeeman.

Groesbeck probably will carry Detroit, while Green's support is largely from the rural sections. The Republican party is split badly in the State and indications are that Comstock may win in the November election for that reason.

Several Democrats also are opposing the Michigan members of the lower house of Congress and it is not unlikely that at least one Democrat may win in November.

Senators William M. Butler and David I. Walsh are unopposed in the Massachusetts primary. Gov. Alvan T. Fuller also is unopposed for renomination.

There are five contests in the twelve congressional districts with chief interest centered in the contest of Mrs. Edith N. Rogers, who is opposed for renomination by John Boardman, of Concord.

No senatorship contest is involved in the Maine primary tomorrow. A special election will be held later to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Fernald, Republican, of that State. Gov. Ralph O. Brewster is opposed for reelection by Ernest McLean, mayor of Augusta, Maine.

Good Elimination Is Essential to Good Health.

ONE cannot be well without good elimination. If the kidneys fail to function properly, there is apt to be a retention of toxic poisons in the blood. A dull, languid feeling and often toxic backache, headache and dizziness are symptoms. Further evidence of improper kidney function is sometimes found in burning or scanty passage of secretions. How to make TEA correctly

Firstly

Be sure you use India Tea, or a blend containing India Tea.

Secondly

Use an earthenware teapot, and put into it one good teaspoonful of India Tea for each cup of tea required.

Thirdly

Be sure you pour the water into the teapot the moment it boils. Only fresh boiling water can bring out the true flavour of the tea. Hot water is no use. Water that has been boiling for some time does not give the best results This is important if you want a really good cup of tea.

Fourthly

Allow the tea to stand 5 minutes to infuse. Put a little cream or milk into each cup before pouring out the tea. It greatly improves the flavour. Then add sugar to taste.

Any retailer or store can supply you with India Tea or blends containing India Tea. He has no difficulty in getting it, as practically every wholesale distributor of tea in this district supplies India Tea. He will gladly get it for you—but—

COOLIDGES' RETURN IS SET TENTATIVELY FOR LATE SATURDAY

Daylight Journey Across New York State Is Talked to Aid Wadsworth.

SEVERAL DAYS OF REST PLANNED BEFORE START

Furniture and Linens Will Be Packed and Shipped in Course of Week.

Paul Smiths, N. Y., Sept. 12 (By A. P.).—President Coolidge entered on the last week of his summer vacation in the northern Adirondacks today and attended services for the last time at the First Presbyterian church of Saranac Lake.

With Mrs. Coolidge and their son John he was given a cordial greeting by residents of Saranac Lake and tourists as he entered the church and a final round of applause as he left after the service.

The sermon was preached by the Rev. George K. Newell, the pastor, and as the presidential party left the services the church gave Mrs. Coolidge a large bouquet of flowers.

Present indications are that Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge will return to Washington Saturday. Although no plans for the return trip by special train have been announced, it is understood that consideration has been given to making the trip by day instead of night. This will take the President across New York State in daylight hours and bring him to Washington late Saturday night.

Would Help Wadsworth.

There have been indications that a daylight trip would please Republican leaders of New York State who believe that if the President appeared to crowds at the cities and towns along the way it would help the campaign of Senator Wadsworth, Republican, for reelection.

The President at the same time has refrained carefully from intervening in State politics. He also, publicly at least, has kept his hands off the senatorial and congressional contests, while he has given no sign of entering the campaign proper in the country after the primaries are concluded.

Few engagements are on the President's program for this week and he will, accordingly, have opportunity to enjoy several days of quiet and complete rest before he returns to Washington for another strenuous winter. At White Pine camp, with Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge are only their son, John, and Mrs. Elmyra Goodhue, of Northampton, Mass., mother of Mrs. Coolidge. The latter two will go to Northampton before Saturday, John to return to Amherst college for his junior year.

Furniture to Be Packed.

Preparations for the departure of the President are already in progress and in a day or two desks, chairs and office supplies at the summer executive offices will be packed for shipment by army motor truck to Washington. Another truckload of linen, dishes and other household equipment will be sent later from the camp to the White House. All mail is expected to be sent from here to the White House after Thursday, so that the last day or two of the President's stay will be devoid of official business.

The marine detachment that has guarded the summer White House will remain on duty until after the President leaves. It then will break camp in a day or two, and its members will be sent to their various home stations, such as the Brooklyn navy yard, Quantico, Va., and the presidential yacht Mayflower.

KANSAS TOWNS HIT BY WALL OF WATER

Two Lives Are Lost, $1,000,000 Damage Is Done in Emporia Vicinity.

Emporia, Kans., Sept. 12 (By A. P.).—Heavy rainfall in eastern Kansas today sent swollen rivers out of their banks and flooded several towns, with a toll of at least two lives and property damage estimated at more than $1,000,000.

Flooded streets in business and residential districts forced many to escape from their marooned places in row boats, and one boy lost his life at Madison when his craft capsized.

The precipitation ranged from 5 to 11 inches. Rock creek, flowing through the heart of the business district of Burlington, sent a stream of water 6 feet deep down the town's main street. A wall of water hit Saffordsville after most of the population had reached safety on high ground.

Boats were used to rescue people stranded in parts of Emporia, Madison, Strong City and Cottonwood Falls.

49 Dead, 62 Missing, After Flood.

Tokyo, Sept. 12 (By A. P.).—Floods in Hiroshima have subsided, the home office announced today. There was a total of 49 deaths, with 62 missing, 32 injured and 242 houses destroyed.

CAPITAL SOCIETY EVENTS

AMERICA is to see considerable of royalty this season if plans now in preparation materialize. The Queen of Roumania and Princess Ileana, who are expected here this fall, will have hardly departed from the picture and will certainly not have faded from memory when interest will be centered on the expected visit here in the spring of the Prince of Wales, who will arrive coincidently with the Duke and Duchess of York, now planning to stop in the United States on their way home from Australia. The coming of the prince is of course like the return of an old friend, but it will be awaited with all the more interest because of that very fact.

The United States Ambassador to France, Mr. Myron T. Herrick, and Mrs. Herrick, who were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Gerard at the home of the latter couple, Bythesea, at Newport, departed from that resort Tuesday for their home in Cincinnati. At the Rhode Island resort Dr. and Mrs. Alexander Hamilton Rice gave a dinner for them Saturday, September 4, at which 50 guests were present, while on Sunday, September 5, they were the honor guests at a luncheon given by Mr. and Mrs. Forsyth Wickes. On Labor day Mr. and Mrs. Gerard entertained for their guests. Scattered in between the larger entertainments were many smaller affairs given in their honor.

Representative and Mrs. J. Mayhew Wainwright, of Rye, N. Y., are at the La Forge, Newport, for a brief stay.

The former United States Ambassador to Germany and Mrs. James W. Gerard, who have been passing the summer at Newport, have departed from the resort. Mrs. Gerard is en route to her old home in Montana, and Mr. Gerard is in New York.

Former United States Minister to the Netherlands, Dr. Henry Van Dyke, is a guest at Newport of Mr. and Mrs. James Stewart Cushman.

Mrs. Robinson to Return.

Mrs. Theodore Douglas Robinson, wife of the Assistant Secretary of the Navy, is expected to return to Washington today, accompanied by her family.

Dr. and Mrs. Boylston A. Beals recently entertained at their Clipson cottage at Manchester. They recently have returned from London, where Mr. Beals is connected with the American embassy. Mr. and Mrs. Beals are giving a large dinner party next Saturday evening for Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Choate, of Washington, who are spending the summer at Beverly Farms.

Among the items of news from Newport is the announcement of the arrival in that city of Vicomtesse d'Osmay, formerly Miss Susan Dresser and a sister of Mrs. John Nicholas Brown. Mrs. Brown and her son have been traveling in Europe, from where they have just returned, accompanied by the vicomtesse, who is making her first visit to this country since her marriage in 1899. There will be much entertaining in her honor.

Mr. and Mrs. William Laird Dunlop, jr., and their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Powell Dunlop, will depart today for Philadelphia, where they will be among the guests at the dinner to be given tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Bellevue-Stratford hotel in honor of the Secretary of State, Mr. Frank B. Kellogg, on the occasion of the celebration of government day at the Sesquicentennial.

Col. and Mrs. Edward M. House, who have been occupying Rocklyn, a cottage at Bar Harbor owned by Mr. Philip Livingston, during the summer, gave a farewell dinner last week and departed for New York.

Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, who is passing the summer at Dark Harbor, Maine, was honor guest at a reception and tea given Tuesday afternoon at Bar Harbor by Miss Christine Biddle.

Mrs. Blair Hostess.

Mrs. Woodbury Blair, who is still at Newport, where she has passed the summer, was hostess at dinner Saturday night.

Prince and Princess Alexander Turin are passing several days in Washington and are at the Willard hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Tumulty were entertained at dinner last week by Mr. Joseph J. Hooey, of New York. Mr. and Mrs. Tumulty recently returned from Lake Placid, N. Y.

Maj. William F. Tompkins, U. S. A., and Mrs. Tompkins, with their sons, Billy, George and Christopher, are guests of Mrs. Tompkins' parents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Hamilton, at their home, Stone Ridge, on the Rockville road.

Mr. and Mrs. Bealle R. Howard have gone to Lenox, Mass., after passing the summer at Kennebunkport, Maine. They will remain in the Berkshires for several weeks. Their niece, Miss Kathryn Gwynn, is visiting her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. John Terry Remey, in New York, after spending the summer with Mr. and Mrs. Howard.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Crittenden Calhoun returned Saturday from "Rosedale House," their summer home in Princeton, N. J., where they have passed the season, entertaining a number of house parties. They are now planning to build a new home in Chevy Chase, Md., on the large tract they have acquired overlooking Rock Creek park, between the Chevy Chase and Columbia Country clubs. Because of the magnificent trees which are on the estate they have chosen for their prospective home the name "Braemar Forest," and the mansion to be built will be patterned to considerable extent after the home of Mr. Calhoun's ancestors in Scotland, a baronial castle. The plans include the laying out of beautiful gardens on a portion of the 75-acre tract included in the estate.

Mme. Ekengren and her two daughters, Miss Elsie H. A. Ekengren and Miss L. Christine Ekengren, have returned to Washington and are at the Chevy Chase club. They will take an apartment at the St. Albans in October.

Mrs. Dimock Gives Dinner.

Mrs. Henry F. Dimock entertained at dinner Saturday evening at Elsinore, Bar Harbor, Me.

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Dorothy Iselin, of Katonah, N. Y., to Mr. Guy S. Paschal, of New York and Washington has been made by Miss Iselin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Iselin. Mr. Paschal is a grandson of the late Judge George Paschal, of Washington. Miss Iselin represents the fifth generation to live in Bedford House, Katonah, the Jay family residence, which was built by her great-great-great grandfather, John Jay, once justice of the Supreme Court of the United States and governor of New York.

The wedding will take place at Katonah in October. Miss Iselin spent part of the summer at Newport with her grandmother, Mrs. William Jay. She made her debut in New York two years ago. She has been the recipient of a diploma for studies in the Sorbonne, Paris. Mr. Paschal was graduated from the law school of the University of Virginia in 1925 and has been engaged in the practice of law in New York.

Mrs. John H. Small, of West Kirk street, Chevy Chase, has returned from Cape Cod where she passed the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Eli Bamford Smith have been entertaining Dr. J. W. Adams, of Philadelphia, and his sister, Miss Eva Adams, and Mr. John Paul de Berry, of Shanghai, at Idle Hour, their summer home on the upper Potomac. The party recently returned from a motor trip to Jamestown, Va.

Dr. Richardson Returns.

Dr. Charles W. Richardson, after having spent some time at Roxbury, Mass., with Mrs. Richardson, occupying their summer home, has returned to this city. Later in the autumn Mrs. Richardson will join him at their country place.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Mary Dorothy Maurice, daughter of Mrs. Maude Maurice, of Washington, D. C., to Mr. John Wesley Johnson, 2d, son of Mrs. Aince Coard Johnson and the late Mr. Harry F. Johnson, of Plainfield, N. J. Miss Maurice, on her mother's side, is a descendant of Major Archibald Armstrong, who fought with the British forces in the Revolutionary war, and her paternal grandfather, Maj. Thomas Maurice, was on Gen. Sherman's staff in the civil war. Mr. Johnson is a graduate of Princeton, '24. The wedding will take place this fall.

Miss Dorothy Grace Keens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Frederick Keens, of Sedalia, Mo., and Mr. Carlyle Martin Ashley, formerly of Washington, were married at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening at the First Congregational church of Sedalia, Rev. J. M. Evans officiating. Mr. Ashley graduated from Central High school with the class of 1916, and from Cornell in 1924. He is a son of the Pennsylvania State geologist, Mr. George Ashley, and Mrs. Ashley, and is an engineer with the Carrier Engineering corporation, of Newark, N. J.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a charming gown of white taffeta and a tulle veil caught with a band of pearls and clusters of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Marion Keens, who attended her sister as maid of honor, was dressed in pale pink chiffon and carried a bouquet of pink roses and lavender sweet peas. The two bridesmaids, Miss Julia Combs and Mrs. William Angle, of Kansas City, school friends of the bride, wore orchid chiffon and carried bouquets of pink roses, and the two little flower girls, Henrietta Lamm, a cousin of the bride, and Helen Ross, a niece of the groom, were dressed in white and carried baskets of roses, whose petals they scattered in the path of the bride.

Mr. James S. Holmes, of Greensborough, N. C., a college friend of Mr. Ashley, attended him as best man, and Mr. William Kahrs, of Wichita, Kans.; Mr. William Angle, of Kansas City; Mr. Flavius Jones, of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Mr. Fred Ludemann, jr., of Sedalia, were the ushers. Mrs. Charles Bard, a cousin of the bride, sang, accompanied by Miss Mabel DeWitt on the organ, and Mr. Percy Metcalfe on the violin.

Immediately following the ceremony, an informal reception, attended by relatives and a few intimate friends of the families, was held at the home of the bride's parents, after which the bride and bridegroom left for a camping trip in the Ozarks. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Flavius Jones, cousins of Mr. Ashley, who were recently married in Buffalo, N. Y. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Ashley will leave immediately for East Orange, N. J., where they will make their home.

Among the numerous out of town guests were Dr. and Mrs. George H. Ashley, parents of the bridegroom; Mrs. Willis Carrier, of Essex Fells, N. J., an aunt of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. Flavius Jones, of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Mrs. Earl Doolittle, of Los Angeles, Calif., aunt of the bride.

Ransom—Sonner Wedding.

Mr. Philip M. Ransom and Miss Virginia Sonner, of Washington, were married Saturday at 11:30 in St. Paul's Lutheran church at Strasburg, Va., the home of Miss Sonner's parents. The Rev. George Bowden, pastor of the church, officiated. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Hazel Sonner, and Mr. Granville Gude, of this city, was best man.

Miss Sonner wore a gown of pale rose French chiffon over a slip of deeper rose, with picture hat, slippers and stockings to match the gown. She carried a bouquet of bride roses. The church ceremony was followed by a reception and wedding breakfast at the Stonehenge manor, Strasburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Ransom returned to Washington by motor and left Saturday night for a wedding trip, in which several Northern cities will be visited, and a short stay made at a summer camp on the shore of Lake Erie, in Ohio.

Mrs. Frank J. Hogan entertained informally Friday at luncheon on the Willard roof.

Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Dwight, of Washington, were among the guests Saturday of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Land, of Yonkers, N. Y., who had a party of friends at Heaton Hall, in Stockbridge, Berkshire hills, in observance of Mr. Land's birthday.

Delegates Are Guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Parsons entertained at dinner on Saturday night in the presidential suite at the Willard, at which time they had 28 guests. Among the guests were a number of prominent delegates to the convention of the International Union of Pure and Applied Chemistry which will be held in Washington beginning tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Leary, jr., and Mrs. Russell T. Edwards, of Chevy Chase, are at the Hotel Flanders in Ocean City, N. J. From there they go to Philadelphia for the Sesquicentennial for a few days before motoring home.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Dacey, 1820 Sixteenth street, are passing the month of September in the White mountains.

INADEQUATE ROADS THREATEN PARALYSIS OF MOTOR TRAFFIC

ress to date has failed signally to keep pace with the demand.

The hard-surface roadways of the United States are divided, the Federal bureau of public roads discloses, as follows: Portland cement concrete, 27,875 miles; bituminous macadam, 10,985 miles; surface-treated macadam and gravel, 15,858 miles; bituminous concrete, 4,821 miles; block pavements, mostly brick, 8,243 miles, and sheet asphalt, 839 miles. The remaining 207,000 miles of roadway in the highway systems of the various States are not hard-surfaced and constitute poor going, in the main.

Nearly 20,000,000 motor cars were registered in the United States during the year 1925. If these cars should be placed at once over all the hard-surface roads of the country they would form a double line covering the entire system, with less than 20 feet spacing between vehicles. This computation does not include the city streets, which are not embraced within the State highway system.

There are being built this year by the State highway departments, in conjunction with Federal aid, about 6,700 miles of concrete, asphalt and brick roadways. There are being turned out by the nation's automobile factories about 4,000,000 cars and trucks, possibly more, for the figure is higher than that in 1925. If these new cars were shunted at once to the new paved roadways to be completed this year they could find standing room with a three-foot spacing between them. That and no more.

In addition to hard-surface roads, the State and Federal governments have combined this year in the building of 14,320 miles of sand clay, gravel and macadam roads and 8,145 miles of dirt roads. These are secondary in quality to the hard-surface roads and at periods of bad weather are virtually impassable, in some sections, for weeks.

The amount of money being spent in new highway construction and maintenance this year is estimated at about $600,000,000 by the bureau of public roads. In addition, the bureau estimates that local authorities will spend about $430,000,000 independent of the State highway systems, making a grand total of $1,030,000,000.

This sum is proving inadequate to keep pace with demand. Surveys undertaken in Maine, Connecticut, Cook county, Ill., and elsewhere recently by the bureau's engineers have created a sensation among officials, and in the automobile industry because of their clear indication that greatly increased spendings must be made, almost immediately, to avert paralysis of motor traffic in those areas by 1930. In some sections the millions now being spent to construct and maintain highways must be increased by from 100 to 300 per cent—and within the immediate future—if hopeless congestion is to be avoided.

For the entire country spendings on highways probably will have to be doubled within the next five years. Either that or the increasing congestion will make it impossible for traffic to move smoothly or economically.

With that in mind, the leaders in the movement for good roads are on the verge at the present time of undertaking a new "campaign of education" to bring the public to a realization that it must furnish more money, almost at once, for good roads.

ROWE FLYING TEAM WINS RELAY EVENT IN NATIONAL SERIES

Air Contests at Sesqui Ended After Week of Stunts and Competition.

MIDGET RACE IS TAKEN BY VETERAN E. B. HEATH

350,000 Miles Flown by the Contestants Without a Serious Accident.

Philadelphia, Sept. 12 (By A. P.).—The team headed by Basil L. Rowe, of Keyport, N. J., today won the novelty race for civilian fliers, feature of the final day of the national air races at the Model Farm field. The event, which was for the Benjamin Franklin trophy, was the second relay race won by Rowe at the meet. His team mates were C. S. ("Casey") Jones, Garden City, N. Y., and A. H. Kreider, Hagerstown, Md.

Rowe's team flew over the 36-mile course in a total elapsed time of 18 minutes 12.52 seconds, or an average speed of 118.624 miles an hour. The contest was a combination airplane and foot race, the passenger in the plane being required to run 200 yards at the completion of each lap.

Second place went to the Ludington Exhibition Co. of Philadelphia, whose pilots were Robert P. Hewitt and John Thropp 3d, this city, and Douglas Davis, Atlanta, Ga.

Midget Race to Heath.

E. B. Heath, veteran aviator and airplane builder of Chicago, flying a tiny Heath sport plane, won the midget race of 50 miles for the Dayton Daily News trophy. He covered the distance at a speed of 86.454 miles an hour.

Harold J. Laas, of Dayton, Ohio, flying a Driggs Dart, was second, with a speed of 82.762 miles. Third place was won by A. H. Kreider, Hagerstown, Md., in a KRA midget, with a speed of 76.771 miles. The machines were all monoplanes and were the only entries in the event.

Parachute jumping by navy petty officers and other stunts gave the spectators plenty of thrills.

In the sport plane event of 60 miles for the Scientific American trophy, Kreider turned the tables on Heath, winning with an average speed of 94.493 miles an hour. The best Heath could do was 91.267 miles. Kreider piloted a KRA Midget with a Wright Morehouse motor, while Heath flew a Heath sport plane equipped with a Bristol Chreub motor. Third place went to Clarence D. Chamberlain, Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., who flew a Bellanca biplane and averaged 89.342 miles.

This event brought to a close the eight days of flying, during which the contestants covered close to 350,000 miles without a serious accident.

BLIMP TC-5 IS HOME FROM MIDWEST TRIP

Dirigible Reaches Langley Field; Some Fear Was Felt Outward Voyage.

Langley Field, Va., Sept. 12 (By A. P.).—The army blimp TC-5 returned to her base here at 4:50 a. m. today, after an uneventful flight from the middle West.

Officers of the ship reported that almost perfect weather conditions prevailed throughout practically the entire journey from Scott field, Belleville, Ills., across the Alleghenies to the Virginia army air base.

Completing a round trip from this station to the Illinois field without mishap, the TC-5 was the first dirigible to make an inland flight since the navy airship Shenandoah was wrecked in a storm in Ohio just a little more than a year ago.

The army blimp encountered rough going on its outward voyage and at times there was fear for its safety.

On the return trip the TC-5 landed at Wright field, Dayton, Ohio, yesterday afternoon from Scott field, and took off for Langley field at 5:45 p. m., sailing a direct line toward her Virginia base. She completed that leg of her voyage in eleven hours and five minutes.

Prehistoric Paintings Seen in Mexican Cave

Mexico City, Sept. 12 (By A. P.). Paintings depicting battle scenes between prehistoric Indian tribes or between Indians and the early Spanish, have been found on the walls of a cave in a remote mountain in Lower California by Edward Davis, an American explorer working for the New York Museum of American Indians.

Davis has reported his find to Gov. Carlos Esquerro, of the southern district of Lower California, who has sent the report to Mexico City. The cave is about 40 kilometers northeast of the town of Mulge.

ARE MOTORISTS VOTE-SLACKERS?

Is the development of the automobile industry in this country responsible for the very large yearly increase in the ranks of the "absentee voter?" Has the use of this vehicle of pleasure and business benumbed the public conscience to such an extent that the American people have lost their sense of public duty? Simon Michelet, one of Washington's political students, so believes, and he makes out an apparently good case in support of his contention.

In an instructive pamphlet on absentee voting in the 48 States in the elections last year, Mr. Michelet points out that in the presidential elections of 1876 to 1896, before the first automobile, 80 per cent of American qualified voters went to the polls and voted for President. In 1916 there were about 1,500,000 motor cars in use, and by that time the percentage of voters actually voting had declined to 65 per cent. Motor vehicle registration by 1924 had reached the total of 17,591,981, and in that year only half of the voters exercised their privilege. This, in terms of ratio, showed three automobiles for every five presidential votes throughout the United States.

Mr. Michelet finds it somewhat easy to analyze this situation. He puts forward a new thought, over which those interested in American politics may ponder. The automobile and the development of interstate Federal and State highways has made our people a nation of highway travelers, drifting here and there on pleasure or business over the million miles of hard surfaced roads built within the last ten year.

Voting, as this writer emphasizes, requires as its foundation a fixed residence, and the voter must have a mind attentive to his duties as an elector on registration and election days. The skilled workman, particularly in building trades, with the high wages of today, takes his "flivver," follows the seasons, and finds employment readily. Election day too often is converted into a general holiday for thousands who fail to return in time to vote. More extended trips are planned without regard to registration or election, and this important public duty is forgotten until the returns are printed the day after election.

There seems to be some reason, therefore, to justify the conclusion that the automobile has made business and pleasure active factors in cutting down the vote. In Europe, where there are comparatively few cars in use by the masses, upward of 80 per cent of those qualified go to the polls. Here we have the largest number of automobiles in popular use, and the highest percentage of "stay-at-home vote." Perhaps Mr. Michelet is right in his argument that the two go hand in hand.

THE CANADIAN ELECTIONS.

The Canadian elections next Tuesday are attracting more than usual interest. It is expected that they will furnish a fair test of the sentiment in the dominion as between a low and a protective tariff.

The conservative party, under the leadership of former Premier Meighan, is assailing the liberals because of alleged customs frauds resulting in a large loss of revenue to the government. The conservatives promise a higher protective tariff, even against the mother country, Great Britain.

The liberals, under MacKenzie King, reject the protective tariff program, and are depending largely upon the consumers and the farmers in the western provinces, who apprehend higher cost of living if the tariff rates are increased.

From all reports the result will turn largely upon the attitude of the farmers, who are divided upon the tariff. If they can be induced to see that protection helps them they are likely to put the conservative party in power. The sentiment for protection centers largely in the province of Ontario, which leads in manufacturing.

BILLIONS SPOILED.

Dr. C. A. Browne, chief of the bureau of chemistry, stated in a recent lecture that several billion dollars each year are lost to the American farmers through spoilage of fruits, vegetables, foods, cattle feeds, timber, and other products. New insecticides, new fungicides and new preserving agents must be discovered to eliminate this loss. It is estimated that the loss to American agriculture each year from the cotton boll weevil exceeds $300,000,000.

The spoilage of agricultural products by the attacks of micro-organisms offers an almost endless number of problems to the chemists. The souring of milk, the molding of bread, the swelling of canned goods, the heating of cattle feeds, the rotting of fruits, the fermenting of sirups and the decay of timber are all phases of the same general process of deterioration.

The chemical transformations that take place in this vast field of waste are very imperfectly understood, and there is a wealth of opportunity for valuable chemical research into the nature of the destructive changes produced and the means for their prevention.

This loss to agriculture is real and remorseless. It operates whether prices are low or high. It is not a hypothetical loss, such as the shrinkage of "values" in the deflation period following the war.

RUBBER PROFITS.

The London Times' report of the annual meeting of the Pelepah Valley (Johore) Rubber Estates, Ltd., held at Liverpool on August 31, may be of interest to American consumers of rubber.

The chairman, Sir Byron Peters, K. B. E., in moving the adoption of the annual report and accounts, is reported by the Times to have said that—

> The accounts for the year showed that the profits amounted to the "record" sum of £51,600. There was available for dividend £60,578. They had already paid two interim dividends totaling 25 per cent, and he would later propose a final dividend of 15 per cent, less tax, making a total distribution for the year of 40 per cent. The rubber crop harvested was 520,835 pounds, at an all-in cost of 7.89d. The average selling price showed a very material appreciation and worked out at just over 2s 7d per pound.

In American money these figures indicate that the Pelepah Valley company produced rubber at a cost of 15¾ cents per pound and sold it for 64 cents per pound, making a net profit of 48¼ cents per pound.

But this profit does not satisfy the Pelepah Valley company. The managing director, H. W. Hewitt, is quoted by the Times as saying that the "pivotal price" fixed by the restriction ordinance is too low. Instead of being 43 cents, it should be fixed at 50 cents, according to Mr. Hewett, "in the interest of taxation." The Times quotes him further:

> Generally speaking, we have every reason to be satisfied with our properties, provided the market for the commodity is not left to the tender mercies of the American consumers.
> Is America, gentlemen, because they happen to be the largest consumers, to dictate what they consider should be done in the British Empire? After all, it is going to take a long time to grow rubber in the Philippines. (Laughter.)
> Too much attention has been given to the vaporings of Mr. Hoover and Mr. Firestone, who have loudly complained at having to pay a fair price for their requirements. They certainly have no reason to complain, since many American manufacturers, including the Firestone company itself, have enormously increased their profits last year, notwithstanding the fact that they paid more for their rubber.

The United States is now buying rubber from British Malaya at the rate of about $30,000,000 per month. Americans are paying the producers a profit of 300 per cent. No wonder the managing director of a rubber company tells his stockholders that "generally speaking, we have every reason to be satisfied with our properties."

PHONE TALKS BROADCAST.

The British postmaster general is in trouble. It is all on acccount of the radio. In England, besides being responsible for the proper distribution of the mails, the head of the postal department has jurisdiction over telegraphs, telephones and the radio. Since broadcasting became the basis of the popular indoor sport known as "listening in" and the use of "wired wireless" has become general, users of telephones have set up loud complaints over their inability to maintain privacy in their communications.

For some reason as yet unexplained it has been discovered that on many occasions telephone conversations have been broadcast over the radio. It appears, too, that religious services have been disrupted and the widespread radio audiences shocked and astounded upon hearing conversations utterly unfit for the ears of the devout. On a Sunday evening some weeks ago, just as the conductor of the service was pronouncing the benediction, the congregation was regaled with all the details of a very lively quarrel between a man and his wife. From the character of the language used, the man evidently was "no gentleman." Naturally complaint was made to the postmaster general, but that harassed official is utterly unable to account for the phenomenon.

Nor is it only the "listeners-in" at religious services who are annoyed. A case is recorded wherein a newspaper reporter, interviewing a prominent British statesman, thought he had an exclusive story all to himself. He was talking over a "single-party wire," so that he had every reason to believe that he had a "beat" on the others. But somehow that conversation got "on the air," and everybody had it.

Thus far similar experiences on this side of the Atlantic are not of record, although telephone wires are used to facilitate radio broadcasting.

THE "RECAPTURE CLAUSE."

A formidable movement has been started to repeal that portion of the transportation act of 1920 called the "recapture clause," providing that whenever any carrier receives for any year a net operating income in excess of 6 per cent of the value of the railway property, one-half of such excess "shall be placed in a reserve fund established and maintained by such carrier, and the remaining one-half shall be recoverable by and paid to the commission" for the aid of weaker roads; that is, those not earning a net operating income of 6 per cent. The plan is based on the theory that the weaker roads are necessary for the public service.

This recapture clause up to September 1 has brought about $6,618,000 into the Treasury. The money is invested in government securities for the benefit of the Interstate Commerce Commission. None of this sum has yet been used for the purpose specified in the act, the sum remaining in the Treasury under protest. However, the courts have upheld the validity of the "recapture clause."

Those who are back of the movement to repeal the disputed clause argue that the courts have decided that 8 per cent is not an excessive return on corporate investments, and that therefore a restriction by law to 6 per cent is unfair. Stocks of railroads are widely distributed, it is argued, hence many persons are deprived of property unjustly.

Further, it is argued that under present conditions railroads are able to borrow sufficient capital in the open markets without paying 6 per cent for funds borrowed from the Interstate Commerce Commission. So the "strong and weaker" argument does not now apply. Finally it is claimed that the long delay in the matter of valuation for rate purposes has prevented the creation of any active contingent fund.

In the last session of Congress the late Senator Cummins introduced a bill relieving prospective consolidated systems of the recapture clause, as an inducement to consolidate. The bill, however, did not pass.

It is quite likely that this matter will be a question for debate in the coming Congress. It is argued that limitation of net operating revenue of railroads to 6 per cent contributes to a depression in railroad securities and is unjust to investors in those securities.

FRANCE REDUCES HER ARMY.

If it shall turn out that the decision of the French ministerial council to reduce the number of officers and enlisted men under the colors, shorten the terms of conscription and otherwise decrease the cost of its military establishment, is something more than a mere gesture, a decisive step has been taken in the direction of the rehabilitation of the finances of France and restoration of confidence in its sincerity of purpose.

This council, possessing plenary powers, has submitted to President Doumergue a decree reducing the number of army officers by 2,700, cutting from 35,000 to 28,000 the number of skeleton regiments, to correspond to the 1904 status, and providing for an ultimate reduction in the cavalry arm of 10,000. By 1927 terms of conscription are to be shortened from eighteen to twelve months, a policy that is expected to lessen considerably the number of men under the colors. The cables also announce various reforms looking to economic savings in other departments of the government which likewise have been put into force.

Definite conclusions as to the effect of these moves can not be reached until exact information is available, but the mere fact that initial steps have been taken to disband a portion of the French army will be hailed with satisfaction in the United States and elsewhere. During debate on the French debt settlement in the House there was much criticism of the French policy of maintaining a very large peace-time military establishment. Senators most strongly opposed to the pending debt settlement have based their arguments largely upon the continued expenditure by France of huge sums for the maintenance of its army. If yesterday's announcement from Paris means a substantial reduction in peace-time military forces much of this criticism will be removed, and early ratification by the Senate of the French debt agreement becomes more probable.

THE REORGANIZATION PLAN.

It is reported that the President has abandoned hope for the passage through the next Congress of any plan for the reorganization of the executive departments.

In February, 1923, President Harding submitted to Congress an outline of a reorganization plan. In May, 1923, an amended resolution was adopted by Congress creating a joint commission on reorganization; and in June, 1924, the commission made an elaborate report, giving in detail a plan of reorganization calculated to save the government a large sum of money.

So much opposition to this plan developed that it was finally abandoned, and on December 10, 1925, Senator Smoot introduced a bill providing for the creation of a reorganization board, consisting of members of the Senate and House and a person to be appointed by the President, authorized to investigate and submit a plan to the President. Nothing was done with the bill.

Representative Wood's recent disclosures concerning the many independent executive establishments revealed that many departments have bureaus that overlap each other and perform duplicate functions. Obviously any plan of reorganization will meet the opposition of many heads of commissions and bureaus; but a comprehensive plan of government economy can not be put into execution without some elimination of duplicates and useless commissions and bureaus.

The tendency in Congress is to create new commissions and to increase the size and number of executive bureaus. Thus economy is made a jest. Millions of dollars are squandered in maintaining superfluous government agencies, whose chief aim is to get larger appropriations. The fault lies with Congress; but what is the taxpayer going to do about it?

Uncle Sam has the true reformer complex. He is always worried by the sins of other nations.

No administration is "greater" than the degree of prosperity the people enjoy.

Blessed is the poor man. He can say he hasn't $10 to lend, and his friend doesn't think him a liar.

The Worst Story I Heard Today—By Will Rogers

The Worst Joke I heard today was told to me by Benjamin Lloyd Belt, Jr. His Daddy is President of the Lorillard Tobacco Company and he is a mighty fine boy; I run onto him in Moscow, Russia. He and I did a lot of messing around Russia, we went up to Leningrad together. He was going on out into the Gold Fields toward Siberia. He just troops around everywhere. He located him a Princess over there and she personally conducted us around in and out of the mass of beards. But I had a great time with this kid and I hope I run onto him again somewhere. He told me the following yarn.

An Englishman was traveling in Spain in behalf of a Humane Society or prevention of cruelty to Animals. He met a very influential old Grandee in Madrid and told him that he wanted to raise some funds for this particular pet Charity. The old Grandee replied, "I am what you English call 'hard uppish' at the present time but I should be glad to try and arrange a Bull fight in aid of your Charity."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Price Cutting.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Senator Capper announces that he intends to press his price-cutting bill before the next Congress. The purpose is to prevent department stores and dealers in large volumes of commodities from cutting prices, thus presenting unfair competition to the smaller dealers. This plan, doubtless, is to protect the thousands of retail dealers all over the country against the department and chain stores.

The courts have already sustained manufacturers in their efforts to prevent the cutting of prices after their products have been sold to the distributor. It is admitted that it is a property right, especially when money is spent for advertising and trademarks.

It is said that price cutting demoralizes trade and does not benefit the consumers appreciably; that all retail dealers who pay taxes and help sustain the community in which they live are entitled to protection against cutthroat competition. Ofter competition is not the life, but the death of trade.

The thousands of retail dealers in the United States are entitled to consideration. If there is any justification in a legislative interference with prices as determined by supply and demand, it lies in the protection of retailers against the practices of gigantic monopolistic price slashers that bear no part of the burden of maintaining the towns and cities in which they operate. They are interloping peddlers.

RETAILER.

Washington, Sept. 11.

Abolishing the Bawling Bellhop.

The New York World gives publicity to a "new" scheme for paging guests in Paris hotels, in which bell boys carry a placard giving the room number of the individual wanted and tinkle a small bell to attract attention. The World sagely observes that this system can never become popular in the United States, because it conceals the identity of the guest, and such desire to avoid publicity is unusual among Americans. The fact is, however, that this unostentatious method of paging guests has been in vogue for years in this country.

Those who visited the Hotel Chamberlain at Old Point Comfort, will remember how the bell boys passed along its spacious corridors and up and down the aisles of the huge dining room carrying a placard mounted on a long wand, giving the number of the room of the person wanted and gently tinkling a tiny bell that called attention to their mission.

Of course, in New York, there are many hotel grafters who seek publicity by having their names bawled out by bellhops; but the average guest would like to have this nuisance suppressed.

"Jim" Reed's Retirement.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Democrats and Republicans alike have learned with sincere regret that Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri will not be a candidate to succeed himself at the expiration of his present term in 1929. When that year comes the distinguished Missourian will have completed three full terms, and during that time he has made a reputation as one of the ablest members of the Senate. That his contemplated retirement is entirely voluntary is obvious. Senator Reed is exceedingly popular with the Democrats of his own State.

Of Senator Reed it may truthfully be said he has the courage of his convictions; more than that, he possesses an eloquent tongue that he never hesitates to use in upholding those convictions. He is a past master in the art of expression. Now and then he utilizes his powers of sarcasm and ridicule to humble his opponent, but often such attacks are accompanied by a twinkle of the eye and a smile that remove much of the sting of his verbal lash.

Like many of his colleagues, the Missouri senator is, comparatively speaking, a poor man. Public life has its charm, but he has reached a time of life when he feels he must return to his profession of law and lay up something for the inevitable "rainy day" that comes into the life of every man. Although a bitter antagonist of everything for which the Republican party stands, Senator Reed counts among his warmest personal friends senators of that political faith. This, in itself, is a tribute to his character as a man.

Radio Enriched.

Boston Globe: The decision taken by the trustees of the Boston Symphony orchestra to put every one of the regular concerts given this coming season "on the air" is well taken. • • • What a festival now awaits thousands of homes! And what a splendid announcement is this with which to reopen the broadcasting season! The mission of radio as an aid to those who love beauty in music is once more emphasized. The stimulation of interest in musical masterpieces which this program promises is bound to bear fruit.

Is the Automobile Driver Insane?

By THE COVERED WAGON.

If a pedestrian walked or ran through the street knocking people down by collision, or striking other pedestrians with hands and feet, he would be arrested. Only insane people do insane things.

If a "masher" stands on the street corner and ogles the girls, or if he follows them, or makes remarks about passers-by, he is promptly taken in hand by the police. That is of course proper.

Thousands of people meet and pass on the sidewalks of Washington every day, and collisions and mishaps are very rare. There are several reasons for this state of safety. First, pedestrians are on an "equal footing," and they are usually courteous to one another. The instinct of self-preservation is present at all times and the head and feet coordinate quickly to avoid trouble.

Put one of the same persons in an automobile and the entire situation may change. The driver loses his sense of proportion and part of his self-control. His impelling motive is to cover distance quickly, regardless of the need or the circumstances. He is impatient of every other motorist and treats the pedestrian as a common nuisance.

Every reasonable driver of a car knows that three-fourths of the accidents upon public roads, and about the same percentage in the cities, arise from driving at a speed beyond quick control.

The driver who approaches near or enters an intersection at from 20 to 25 miles an hour is very likely to meet some other reckless driver approaching or entering at the same speed. Under such circumstances the chances are greatly in favor of a collision.

The trouble is that the average driver will not adjust his mind to the changed conditions at the intersection unless there is a traffic policeman in sight. If he does observe conditions around him he probably hesitates too long before reducing speed, applying the brakes, or before changing to a lower gear, which is one of the best safeguards when in doubt.

Let me suggest honor stickers on the windshield, showing that the driver has taken a pledge to handle his machine cautiously and to try his best not to maim or kill; not to drive after drinking; to respect all the rights of pedestrians and other drivers, in front of him and behind him; to use his lights judiciously and sound his horn sanely; to signal courteously and clearly, and to show that he understands that night driving is more hazardous than day driving.

Possibly it may become necessary to require all cars to install chimes or bells to herald their approach, which would not be so bad when we recall the music of the sleigh bells. If a little bell upon a cat may save the birds, a larger one upon an automobile might save a human life.

At any rate, in the words of the Mikado "Let the punishment fit the crime." The jay-walker may be a fool but he is not necessarily a criminal. The reckless automobile driver exhibits characteristics of both and he is too numerous.

PRESS COMMENT.

Too Broad a Claim.

Detroit News: Women's influence has cleaned up politics, announces the League of Women Voters. As, for instance in Canton.

Tip for Chairman Hull.

New York Sun: This country has only 11,000 millionaires left. Congressman Hull can prove from this that prosperity has disappeared.

"Jim" Reed's Boom.

Cincinnati Enquirer: A boom has been started in Missouri for Senator Reed for President. Well, there is no law against even South Carolina starting a boom for Cole Blease if she wants to.

No Use Trying.

Philadelphia Inquirer: It certainly is discouraging. For some time past we have been trying to keep our watch on the dot with government time, and now we learn the standard clock at Washington varies about two-hundredths of a second a day.

That Spanish Revolution.

Philadelphia Record: Suppression of the Spanish uprising caused the deaths of two soldiers. Some Spaniards believe that if the casualties had been more carefully selected, this result might have been permanently beneficial to the country.

Spurs to Ambition.

Louisville Times: To get on in business, and in society, and lay up something for a rainy day, a young man must carry life, accident, fire, windstorm, burglary and liability, insurance, five clubs, water on both shoulders, a high head and any of his wife's near relatives who would be a disgrace to the family if left upon their own resources.

Stand on Its Own Feet.

Louisville Courier-Journal: No sounder advice could have been given the farmers than that of ex-Gov. McKelvie of Nebraska, who said that farming is a business which can and should stand on its own feet, and that the agriculturist should abhor the thought of becoming the beneficiary of paternalistic Federal legislation, "a dependent, a mendicant, or what is worse, a member of the communistic state."

Saving the Merchant Marine.

Detroit Free Press: President Coolidge harks back directly to one of the principal policies of President Harding when he opposes the transfer of government-owned vessels to foreign registry when they are sold to private interests, and says that the nation can well afford to pay for the extra cost and inconvenience of keeping the American flag on the seas. Mr. Harding did his best to persuade Congress to pass a very sensible bill to accomplish this very thing, but because he was straightforward enough to use the expression "ship subsidy" all the demagogues in the national legislature rose on their hind legs and howled and brayed and made a dead set against the bill.

GOOD FALL BUSINESS AT HAND; INDUSTRY BROADENS ACTIVITY

Statistics Indicate Improvement in Trade Is Still Under Way.

CREDIT SITUATION SOUND; MONEY RATES STIFFEN

Peak of Crop and Merchandise Movement Still to Come, It Is Believed.

New York, Sept. 12 (By the Associated Press)—The expected broadening of business activities after Labor Day came fully up to expectations last week, strengthening the promise of active autumn trade. The ending of the vacation season, according to reports from many centers, was followed by stiffening commodity prices, an expansion of commercial operations and a larger wholesale and retail buying movement.

Statistical measures of trade, including car loadings, bank clearings, industrial earnings and the trend of output in various lines, have provided convincing proof of the improvement which has lately taken place and is still under way.

Credit Situation Is Sound.

Bolstering up the entire structure of business has been a fundamentally sound credit situation. Money rates have stiffened with the approach of fall, but in view of declining commodity prices there has been no doubt that this was due to a normal trade expansion and not to commercial inflation. So far money conditions have not been tight enough to work any hardship upon legitimate business requirements, and the Federal Reserve rediscount rates have been maintained at a 4 per cent level.

The number of cars loaded with freight in the week ended August 28—1,136,233—was the largest in the history of the railroads. This was the fourteenth week this year in which the freight movement had passed the million-car mark, and the total loadings represented a gain of 1 per cent over the previous high record established in the final week of August last year.

Believe Peak Is Still to Come.

Traffic experts believe the peak of the crop and merchandise movement is still to come, and would not be surprised to see the August loadings eclipsed later in the fall.

Additional evidence indicating a great distribution of merchandise has been supplied by the records of the chain store systems covering every section of the country. Sales of the ten leading companies for the eight months ended August 31 were the highest on record for this period, totaling $345,530,481. The August figures alone represented a gain of more than 3 per cent over the same month last year.

Bank clearings have held well above those of a year ago, which had been unmatched up to that time, and producing operations have been expanded in the automobile, textile and footwear industries.

Building Activities Slower.

Building activities, however, have proceeded at a slower pace, and the oil industry has been worried by recent increases in crude production.

Operations in the steel industry last week averaged about 36 per cent of capacity, the largest in some time, and all indications pointed to a continuance of this activity throughout the fall. Unfilled orders of the United States Steel corporation, which gained more than 100,000 tons at the end of July, again declined in August to the extent of some 60,000 tons, but this was explained by the unusually high rate of shipments, including accumulated orders from the earlier summer months.

Steel ingot production in August was the heaviest since last April. Manufacturers were encouraged by larger inquiries from the railroads and equipment companies and by the stiffening of sheet prices.

FEAR OF HIGHER MONEY REDUCES BOND TRADING

Prices, However, Remain Firm During Week; New Offerings Shrink.

FOREIGN LIST STRONGEST

New York, Sept. 12 (By the Associated Press)—Credit conditions governed activities in the bond market last week, accounting for a curtailed volume of dealings, and at the same time for the underlying firmness of prices. Trading was restricted by ungrounded fears that the 4 per cent Federal reserve rediscount rates would be raised in certain cities, but the failure of any of these banks to make changes later strengthened the confidence.

The week after Labor day saw money rates established at slightly higher levels, but until the call quotation rises above 5 per cent bankers do not look for a general upward revision of discounting charges.

The United States Treasury's fall financing was successfully accomplished by the sale of $350,000,000 nine-month 3½ per cent certificates, which were promptly oversubscribed. The offering was in line with the expectations of the financial community, and had little effect upon the prices of outstanding government obligations. The large oversubscription — almost twice the amount of the issue—indicated that a great volume of funds was awaiting investment.

With the possible exception of large stabilization loans for France and Belgium, investment houses have been unable to foresee much important financing for the autumn months, despite the favorable conditions prevailing for the flotation of new issues. Two German loans of about $20,000,000 each are overhanging the market, one for the state of Prussia and another for the Siemens & Halske electrical concern. Many small corporate issues, both foreign and domestic, are in prospect. Last week's bond offerings aggregated about $53,000,000, compared with nearly $70,000,000 in the preceding week.

Under new ministries both France and Belgium have made considerable progress in preparing their financial affairs for the eventual test of exchange stabilization, and these measures may be attempted before the end of the year with the aid of international loans. Reports that Germany would borrow externally through the issuance of mark bonds, however, have been discredited in banking circles. The next outside financing for the German government is expected to be in the form of railway bonds now in the control of the reparations agent.

The strongest buying operations in the bond market last week centered in the foreign group. The more promising outlook in France carried a dozen French issues to the highest price in their history.

Domestic railroad liens marked time, fresh buying of a few semi-speculative issues being counteracted by the extension of profit-taking activities following the recent strong market for all railroad securities. Andes Copper 7s led a rise in the copper bonds.

The formation of committees to protect Warner Sugar bondholders in view of the company's financial troubles and recurrent reports of its difficulty in meeting interest payments, accounted for another sharp slump in the bonds of the corporation and its subsidiary.

New York, Sept. 12 (By A. P.).—A $20,000,000 loan for the Free State of Prussia, consisting of 25-year 6½ per cent bonds, will be placed on the market tomorrow at 95, the highest offering price established on any German issue here since the war. Most of the post-war German financing has been done on a yield basis of 7 per cent, or better, but the Prussian bonds will yield only 6.92. The offering syndicate is headed by Harris, Forbes & Co.

A billion-dollar turnover is scheduled for the money market next Wednesday, due largely to the government's operations on that date. The redemption of $400,000,000 maturing Treasury certificates and the payment of interest on outstanding obligations will bring disbursements up to about $500,000,000. Receipts will include the payments for the $350,000,000 Treasury note issue and income tax payments, estimated at $300,000,000 for this quarter.

Holders of Dresdner Bank shares, some of which recently were sold in this country, will receive rights to subscribe to additional stock equal to 25 per cent of their present holdings, it is announced. The new shares will be priced at 120, and subscriptions will be received up to September 25.

The recent Federal Trade Commission report to Congress on trading in grain futures meets with general approval in the grain trade, despite the wide difference of opinion over some of the changes suggested, President D. H. Wunder of the New York Produce Exchange, said today. Mr. Wunder declares it is actually an indorsement of the present grain futures institutions, although he believes the commission's suggestion that marginal trading in futures be discontinued or curtailed is a debatable question, and at variance with published statements of Department of Agriculture officials.

The Federal Water Service Corporation announced today the acquisition of four water companies in California. The largest of these is the Fresno City Water Corporation, formerly a part of the Western Power System, and the others are the Chico Water Supply Co., the Bakersfield Water Co. and the Visalia Water Supply Co.

RUTH AND PETER

By ACHMED ABDULLAH

(Copyright, 1926, Thompson Feature Service, Inc.)

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Ruth Weiles, young, pretty and very ambitious, secures a position as secretary to Peter Barton, a distinguished New York lawyer. She is sharing an apartment with two sisters, Edna and Hattie Mathews, and Hattie and Ruth are taking a night-school course in law. Maisie Andrews formerly occupied the apartment with the girls, but is now living alone, although Riccardo Martinez, an unscrupulous adventurer, has the key to her new apartment. Presently Edna marries Harry Davis, a rejected suitor of Ruth's. Meanwhile, Ruth and Barton, after struggling against their feeling for some time, admit their love for each other and are married in spite of the disapproval of his mother and Nelda, his sister, who wished him to marry a certain little French countess. Barton then engages Hattie as his secretary and Ruth is dismayed to find that now she has become his wife he no longer is willing to share his business interests with her. About this time she introduces Nelda to Maisie as the result of an accidental meeting and through Maisie, Nelda meets Martinez. He immediately engages in a flirtation with her, hoping to obtain blackmail by compromising her. Maisie is furiously jealous, and after many quarrels with Martinez is one day found murdered, but Martinez is able to prove an alibi. While this is taking place Ruth is growing more and more jealous, first of Hattie because as Barton's secretary she shares his business affairs and second of Annette de Lorraine, the little French countess, who is Barton's client. Hattie resigns from her position as secretary and she and Ruth open a law office together. Barton is bitterly opposed to it and succeeds in ruining their business. After this failure Hattie returns to Barton's employ and Ruth goes South with Nelda to recover from a nervous breakdown. There they meet Martinez, who now calls himself Del Santa Cruz, and he renews his flirtation with Nelda. Ruth distrusts him deeply, suspecting him of Maisie's murder.

"The Show Down."

HE was silent for a few moments watching her narrowly. If she consented to come along as his mistress—which, however, was outside his calculations he would take her at her word. Yes. If she called his bluff he would submit. For, after all, he would be able to turn it into a financial profit. Her proud, old-fashioned family would pay handsomely to keep the scandal from becoming public. And, she was pretty and young. She would do charmingly, at least for a few months.

But he knew that she would not consent. He was quite certain of that. He only played this little scene to lead up cleverly to the real, the important business he had to transact with her.

"Matrimony," he went on easily, "is out of the question, just at present. But one can have love without a clergyman mumbling some silly words, don't you think? You would make an adorable mistress, Nelda. Or—are you a quitter—like your sister-in-law?"

The effect of this speech on Nelda even surprised herself. She, who had always boasted of flying in the face of convention, of what she called the hypocrisies of life, suddenly was shocked to the core of her being. It was tragic. And it was comic. And tragic—and comic—her words:

"You—you cad—you utter cad."

He jumped to his feet. It was the very cue he had hoped for. He took her in his arms, kissed her roughly, then flung her back upon the divan.

Laughing he stood over her.

"My farewell—as your lover," he said. "Well, if you won't come across one way, you'll come across another!"

Dimly, in her terror and outrage, she noticed how his voice changed. All traces of accent had vanished. His silky tones had taken on a harsh, throaty New York East Side tinge.

"You've amused yourself long enough with me," he went on "Whistled me to your heel! Teased me! Never had enough courage for a show down! You've no passion except, oh, for cheap thrills! Well, you wasted my time. And—and I am afraid you'll have to pay for it."

"P—pay——"

"In cash! At least you have that."

"Pay for what?"

"For, ah, your lack of discretion. Take a look—at this—and that——"

He flung some of the copied letters on the divan. She picked them up with shaking fingers. She read. Certain phrases and words leaped out at her with new, terrible meaning. She tore up the letters, and he smiled.

"Copies!" he commented. "I have plenty more, as well as the originals. But what about this, my dear?"

He showed her a copy of the deposition of the young man who had blundered into his rooms the day Nelda had come there to see his Spanish antique.

She stared at him, horror struck.

"My dear," he said, "I am exactly like a villain in a melodrama. I've left no stone unturned. Shortly after you honored my humble home with your charming visit I went to a certain New York hotel, where I registered with a small, very pretty little woman who, well, looks rather like you. There were witnesses who saw her, and who saw you. Then, of course, there are always the servants, here and in New York. You understand?"

Silence dropped like a pall.

Nelda was trying to think. Meredith—Peter—her little world—her mother, that haughty, stiff-necked, uncompromising woman—all her friends—fair-weather friends—the headlines in the papers! She saw herself—a slinking shadow of herself in some obscure hotel on the continent, in some cheap Swiss or French pension—receiving small, grudging quarterly checks * * * saw it all, as if it were a series of pictures flashed before her smarting eyes on a drab, pitiless screen.

"Blackmail!" she whispered, hoarsely.

"No, no! Let us call it—my bill—for services rendered!"

"How—how much?"

"Fifteen thousand down—and two thousand every three months."

She looked at him. Every trace of beauty was wiped from her face as writing on a slate is effaced with a wet rag.

"Impossible!" she said. "I haven't it!"

"Don't be a damned little fool!"

"I've no money of my own. My husband—he knows how extravagant I am with cash—pays my bills."

"Well—you'll have to get it from your husband, somehow—or from your brother."

"They—they would suspect * * *"

"Well—you'll have to be careful!"

"And—it'll take time!"

"You have your jewels in the meantime."

Instinctively his greedy hands reached up to the lovely pearls about her throat.

She shrank back.

"No, no! How could I explain * * *?"

"There is such a thing as false pearls and paste diamonds," he suggested. "However, there is no need for me to waste time in talking."

Time! That was the word!

That was what she needed!

"Let me think!" she begged. "I'll do what I can! Give me until tomorrow!"

"Very well. I'll be back tomorrow at this hour."

He left, returned to the Breakers, canceled his train reservation for that evening, made another for the following day. He was quite sure she would pay. There was no other way out of it for her, nor had she a soul to whom to turn for advice. Ruth? How could Ruth help her?

He dressed carefully. He dined well.

After dinner he would show himself about, in all the usual smart places. He was certain that Nelda would stay at home.

She stayed—where he had left her, crouching on the divan—trembling, crying—even praying.

What could she do?

To whom could she turn?

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. W. A. EVANS

UNDERNOURISHED CHILDREN.

A STUDY of the school children of Lincoln, Nebr., made by Miss Wolfe, showed that the definitely below-weight children ate the wrong foods, and that was responsible for most of the trouble. There are those who say that the majority of the very much underweight children are already tuberculous and the tuberculosis is responsible for their poor condition. Others say bad tonsils and adenoids are the principal causes of the trouble. Miss Wolfe holds bad eating habits to be the principal cause.

They went through all the Lincoln schools looking for children who were 20 per cent underweight. There were not enough of those so they went down the list again and added all those who were 15 per cent underweight to the group already selected.

These two groups, 146 in number, were carefully examined, closely observed, and their habits were investigated. The vast majority were said to be living on a deficiency diet consisting chiefly of acid-forming foods. They were eating too much bread, pastries and sweets, and eating too little vegetables, fruits and milk. Nearly three-fourths of them were eating excessive amounts of sweets. More than one-half were eating excessive amounts of white bread. More than one-half were drinking only one glass of milk or less daily. About one-third were eating too much meat. Only one-fourth were eating vegetables other than potatoes. Too much play, staying up late at night and going to shows were responsible for much overfatigue. This overfatigue caused the children to drink coffee.

The family food habits tend to become worse as the children grow older and the more undernourishment they develop. Undernourished children are very liable to have moist palms, to be pale and have enlarged glands. They are subject to colds, cough and sore throat. Their teeth decay readily. They are prone to develop those sinus infections which many people call catarrh. The tendency to the sinus infection called catarrh grows worse the older the children get and the longer they remain undernourished.

Miss Wolfe found that many of them were tuberculous. The longer they remained undernourished the greater the danger of tubercular infection. This experience teaches, as others have taught, that underweight and malnourishment are not because of hunger or of grocery bills that are too small. Milk and vegetables cost no more than sweets. Sweets, as school children buy them, cost more than milk, vegetables, or even fruits.

MOSQUITO BITES.

Mrs. A. T. B. writes: My little girl of 4, when bitten by mosquitos, has a huge swelling around the bite for two or three days.

1. Is this due to the condition of her blood?

2. Is there anything I can do to relieve her immediately?

3. We live in the most beautiful part of the country, but if there's a mosquito in the room, it is bound to go to her.

1. In the sense that her blood is impure, no. She is extra sensitive to mosquito poison.

2. The common remedy is ammonia. That remedy distracts attention and in that way helps. The poison is in the tissues and the ammonia cannot get at it. A carbolic solution or salve, or a mint lotion or salve, should be better.

3. Mosquitos like the taste and smell of some people. In mosquito experimental work some persons have been used for mosquito bait. Gorgas says in Panama they found a certain gray horse was the best bait available. He suited the taste of the mosquitoes. You can change your daughter's flavor by the free use of mosquito repellants. Some of these are not offensive to one's associates.

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES M'DONALD

Petted or Admired—Which?

DEAR Miss McDonald: I have been reading your articles in the paper for some time and I think that your advice, if followed, has done worlds of good.

I would like to say to the girl who signed herself "Waiting," and to all other girls who are waiting for a decent man to come along, that the world is full of such people. A girl gets from a man just what she wants. If she wants to be petted, she will get it, and it is her own fault—if, on the other hand, she wants to be admired and looked up to, she will receive that, and it is to her own credit.

I have been going out since I was 14 years old and when I was younger I wanted petting and necking and I got it. I soon grew tired of this nonsense and realized that good times could be had in another way. It was hard to break away from my old habit, especially when I had dates with boys who expected me to neck as I used to, but I stuck to my decision and finally came out victor. I have had a great deal of experience and I know that a girl gets just what she wants from a man — nothing more.

I hope you will be able to find a small space in your column for this note, for I am sure that if girls realized that they could have just what they wanted, they would try what I have tried, and I hope each one will stick to it long enough to be the winner. First decide whether you want to be petted or admired—then, hoping you success in your undertaking,

BACKED BY EXPERIENCE.

Dear Miss McDonald: It was while resting from a day of tiresome office routine that I by chance picked up your article, "They Defend the Men," and immediately became absorbed. "J. W. F.'s" contribution was especially interesting.

I am in a position to know that the "decent men" are few and far between—probably all married—for I've been engaged twice and am thanking my stars "I didn't" take a chance, for my married life would certainly have been a failure, from what I have learned of their lives since breaking the engagement. Of course, once I believed the boys perfection itself.

Now, "J. W. F.," I am a modern girl—but—I don't pet nor smoke, nor drink. Yet I have a good time, because I try to find other pleasures than "wrestling with a date" and "forbidding liberties," thereby "disappointing the boy friend," and, incidentally, feeling disgusted with life in general and myself for making a date at all.

I love tennis—play a fairly good game. Am considered a talented pianist, a good dancer, good dresser, full of fun and enjoy a wholesome good time, such as you mention, with a congenial bunch. I swim; I can row a boat, pack a good lunch, bake a good cake and am taking up golf. No, I'm not remarkable—just a human, 100 per cent modern girl with certain scruples—but—have I many admirers? I have not. Come forward, all you decent men!

J. A.

Nemrac: Of course you know that your "guardian" is a criminal and one to whom the law shows no mercy.

He is guilty of impairing the morals of a minor—and judging from your letter he has completely accomplished his work. You are now acting as if devoid of will, character or even intelligence. Refuse to be further degraded—and the man will begin to regard you with something approaching the wholesome fear that one intelligent being feels when tempted to impose upon another.

Your real trouble is that you are without will—and if it were not this man it would be another. When you become decent yourself, you will have a chance. When that time comes, write me again giving your name and I will advise you more fully. But until you yourself see your predicament as the degradation it is—no one can help you exert your will.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

BEYOND.

There is no fame beyond the gates of doom,
No pride, no pomp within the narrow tomb.
The proud, the great, the scornful and the base
Lie side by side, cold, still and commonplace;
The brilliant mind no more from death can reap
Than the dull wit who shares his couch of sleep.

And since so soon equality must be
Why boasts the lawyer of his larger fee?
Why struts the actor in his hour of fame?
What has the rich man others may not claim
Think you that God, who views life as a whole,
Will give his favors to the best-dressed soul?

This man digs ditches, this one drives a cart,
This one has never said one sentence smart,
This one a little while has ruled a throng,
And what he thought was wisdom oft was wrong,
But since the mower spares no blade of grass,
So all men through the narrow gate must pass.

Please God, nor fret your soul that critics sneer,
'Tis but an hour of life that passes here.
Tomorrow all is changed. The pride of place
Men now display may be the soul's disgrace.
All cheap distinctions vanish with the breath.
Mankind goes naked to the court of death.

Conduct and Common Sense

By ANNE SINGLETON.

PLAY FAIR

WHENEVER you want to be sure that your conduct is the conduct of a lady or gentleman down to the most important detail, ask yourself if you are "playing fair." If you are not, then alter your conduct. You have no idea how simply this rule applies itself. You are invited to a meal. You don't take the trouble to answer your invitation. That is not playing fair, because you leave your hostess in doubt as to how much food to order or how many places to have set. You may be in some doubt as to the exact way to answer the invitation, and not want to put yourself on record as having done it in the wrong manner. But it is better, if you consider her side of the question, to answer in the wrong way (if there is a wrong way), than not to answer at all. I mention this trivial example because it happened to come under my notice. A young man had been asked by letter to luncheon, and, not feeling sure how to word his reply, did not reply. But he could have gone to the nearest telephone and left a message if he could do nothing more polite. "Please tell Mrs. Blank that Mr. Jones has received her note and will lunch with her on Tuesday at 1 o'clock with pleasure," would not be hard to say.

The same rule holds good about most situations. People who talk to each other at the theater and prevent other people from hearing what the actors say, aren't playing fair. People who stand in groups stupidly blocking up subway entrances and exits aren't playing fair to the hurried individuals trying to get in and out. People who take up the time of busy officials with long personal conversations, while lines of other clients are waiting, are not playing fair. I went the other day, with only a few moments to spare for my errand, to get a trunk checked from New York to Newport. It happened that it could not be done as I wanted it done, and it would have taken the man just two minutes to tell me so. I waited fifteen minutes while the two women ahead of me told him their family histories, why they were leaving New York and what the part of the country they were going to looked like. They were lacking in that sixth sense which tells gentlepeople when they are not playing fair to others.

The New Jumper Frock

Borrows its line from Jane Regny—its decoration from Molyneux—

AND it is black—of course—for black has come to challenge the color vogue—and is finding considerable support among the very smart younger set. Incidentally this frock makes clever use of Kasha which has returned in great glory this season—and the jumper is elaborate with a new Persian motif, worked in silver thread to match the big ball buttons—typically a Molyneux treatment.

Don't Coddle Yourself Too Much!

SOMETIMES I have pangs of conscience about these little articles I write for you, for fear they should lead to such an entirely self-centered viewpoint on the part of some reader that she might become one of those perpetual self-coddlers who try to take all the rough edges off of life. Wrapping oneself in cotton wool isn't living; it doesn't even lead to beauty; and it makes other people miserable, if not yourself.

Lying in bed after you're wake in the morning is one form of coddling yourself; taking a nap after meals—unless you've been ordered to do it by a physician—is not only self-indulgent, but, especially after middle-age, it's apt to make you fat. Taking warm baths rather than cold may be necessary for the occasional person, but, on the whole, a warm bath at night to be clean and a cold bath in the morning to start you tingling into the new day will be found the ideal regime.

Perhaps the chief form of coddling in America today consists in taking too many buses, taxis or drives in one's own motor when walking would be so much more beneficial. Some women refuse to walk as far as the street corner; and, pretty soon, their figures show it. For they coddle themselves at the table, too, by indulging out-of-door appetites without the justification of exercise.

Talking about aches and pains is also a form of coddling, and it generally grows out of the others, for, if they hadn't been indulged, there mightn't be any aches and pains to talk about. Nothing is more tiresome to one's friends, one's family; nothing is so destructive of popularity. Sooner or later, one discovers fresh symptoms, for organs frequently seem to misbehave themselves out of sheer self-consciousness because they've become the center of attention—as children do! Think of other people; think of your work if you have any—if not, think about getting some. Think about yourself as little as you can; and think constructively.

Tomorrow Viola Paris will have something to say about improving the ears.

For Plants That Are Little and Tender

DEAR JIMMY! As I write this at 10 p. m. the thermometer by my study door, where such night breeze as there is drifts in sluggishly from the garden and the woods beyond, registers precisely 84 degrees Fahrenheit. Do you wonder that I sigh a little and reach again for the ice-water as I try to concentrate my thoughts on the suggestions you ask for concerning the carrying of your hardy flower seedlings through the winter?

There's only one real way to do it, Jimmy, and that's with a coldframe. Awful thought for a hot night, but it can't be helped!

Most gardeners (even a good many quite experienced ones) think of the coldframe merely as springtime accessory. In that 3 x 6 broad enclosure with its slightly slanting sash cover they see nothing but a protected box which, for the benefit of certain seeds and plantlets which it contains, will trap the March sunshine and promote growth where otherwise would be only death by freezing or drowning. Now, this is all right as far as it goes, but it doesn't go far enough. The well managed cold frame is really almost as valuable in fall and winter as it is in the spring.

Suppose, for example, October finds you with a batch of perennial flower seedlings that are not big enough to be set out permanently in the garden where the hardships of winter exposure would knock them for the proverbial goal. Very well—you just put them, seed boxes and all, into the shelter of the coldframe, where they will not only make several more weeks of growth, but, after things really freeze up, will be guarded by protecting mats from that alternate freezing and thawing of the soil, which plays such havoc with fragile rootlets.

Or suppose you crave an extra late crop of fresh beets or carrots or radishes. Very well, sow the seeds now in coldframe and you'll get a delicious harvest at a time when the frost is literally on the pumpkin and the corn has been so long in the shock that it's just a withered, bleached wraith of its old self.

I could go on for pages telling you of ways to make the coldframe a gilt-edged autumn investment, but my ice water's given out and my brain is slowly addling in the heat. Just this one final bit of urgent advice, and I'm through: Build, buy or borrow at least one right now—tomorrow—and prepare to put it to work. You'll not regret it—take my word for that!

Farewell, GARDNER.

Leather Trimmings Have Paris Vogue

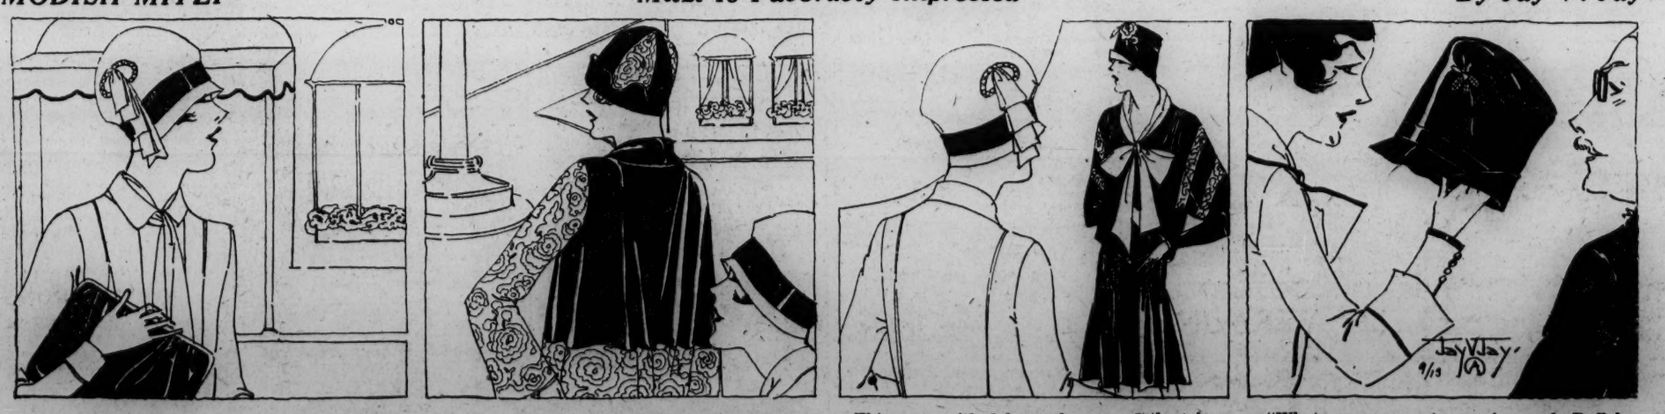

(By the Associated Press.)

Leather trimming is having a great Paris vogue and leather accessories of all kinds, particularly for the holiday and traveling season. Hats, short coats, long coats, collars, cuffs, pocket flaps, buttons, bags, belts—all appear in suede and leather of every hue. The colors either match the tweed or woolen clothes with which they are worn or form a bright contrast.

MODISH MITZI

Mitzi Is Favorably Impressed

By Jay V. Jay

Mitzi's been touring the country and intends to publish a volume of her "impressions" of the leading cities of these United States. You see her fashionably attired for the occasion, small felt hat with ribbon and brilliant ornament—ready to be impressed or impressive.

Mitzi's mind is not on the street of Buffalo, nor on the square, nor we imagine, on anything but this sports outfit, black and white with the white embroidered in black. Black is becoming more and more popular observes Mitzi truly impressed by the costume's smartness.

This gown with dolman sleeves and the trimming of braid in white is new. It is made of soft, rich chiffon velvet. Two good things to remember, notes Mitzi. Velvet and black. Each very much in this season's favor. Combined they are doubly desirable.

"What are your impressions of Buffalo, Mitzi?" asked Dad. "Well," answers Mitzi, can you imagine finding a black velour hat with a creased crown like this in five minutes? You can find anything you want here. It's remarkable!" No city could receive greater praise in Mitzi's eyes.

—by the growing importance of black and what is smarter than—

A dolman sleeve black crepe Frock, trimmed in the newest of braids, "Gribisch," with a touch of Valencia blue on the collar and cuffs, $65.

Walnut Room, Third Floor.

A black soliclic velour Hat to complete this costume can be found here in less than five minutes, in duplicate of one Mitzi says is remarkable. Priced $25.00.

JONES OPENS DEFENSE OF AMATEUR CROWN TODAY

Nats Beaten Again By Tribe

Murray Pounded Out of Box in Defeat at Cleveland, 14-4.

Speaker and Burns Lead Hitters With 4 Safeties Each.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 12.—In dropping their third straight to the Indians here this afternoon, 14 to 4, the Nats looked as bad as the weather conditions, which could hardly have been worse for baseball. The game was half an hour late in starting because of rain which fell throughout the contest, hostilities were called off for 40 minutes in the Nats' fourth, and the last three frames were played in semidarkness.

George Murray and Emil Levsen were the starting flingers, but "let George do it" meant nothing at all this afternoon, for the Smiler was knocked all over the lot and gave way to Lefty Thomas in the third. Thomas did fairly well until eliminated to make room for a pinch-hitter in the eighth, and Fred Marberry finished the game.

Levsen granted ten hits and three came in two clusters, but his lead was so large that he never was in trouble.

BURNS and Speaker led the Tribe with the willow, each getting four hits. Two of George's were doubles, while Spoke cracked out two two-basers and a triple. McNeely, Rice and Harris obtained two bingles apiece for the Nats.

The Nats' opening frame was one of those trick affairs in which the first trio of batters up singled, yet no scoring was done. First McNeely singled to center and all hands were safe on Rice's scratch hit back of second. Goslin then cracked out a one-baser to right, on which Earl tried to register. He might have made it had he not slipped in the mud around third, but was caught at home. Rice took third on the blow and was held there while the Goose advanced on Myer's short fly to center. Judge then rolled to Spurgeon for the third out.

In the lower half, there was no trick in connection with the attack launched by the Indians, which brought eleven men to the tee and netted them five runs and six hits.

With one down, Murray walked Spurgeon and then came in rapid order a one-shot by Speaker, a double by Burns and singles by J. Sewell, Summa and L. Sewell. Lutzke lofted to Rice for the second out and then Levsen came through with a one-base drive to left. After Jamieson, up for a second time, had coaxed a pass, Spurgeon ended the frame by hoisting to McNeely.

Round 2 was good for another alien tally, it being coined from successive doubles off the right-field fence by Speaker and Burns.

REDS AND BUCS WIN TWO AND THREATEN LEAD OF CARDINALS

Donohue Blanks Robins, 3 to 0; Saves Luque, 4 to 3.

Roush Gets Four Hits Off Vance; Rigler Bars McWeeney.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 12 (By A. P.).—The Cincinnati Reds annexed both ends of a double-header with Brooklyn today, by 5 to 0 and 4 to 3, climbing to within one game of the Cardinals, who were idle. The Pirates kept pace with the Reds by taking a twin bill from the Giants, leaving the same margin of one and one-half games separating the clubs.

Pete Donohue blanked the Robins with three hits in the opener, and then came back to save the second contest, relieving Luque with two on the bases and one out.

Aided by splendid fielding support, Donohue easily disposed of Brooklyn in the first game. Dizzy Vance went the route for the flock, allowing 13 hits, four of which were made by Eddie Roush in the same number of times at bat.

Late Rally Wins First, 5 to 1; Pirates Also Take Final, 7-1.

Waner Features Game With Two Homers; Meadows Stars.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12 (By A. P.).—Pittsburgh entered on its invasion of the East today with a double victory over the New York Giants by 5 to 1 and 7 to 1, thereby advancing the Pirates to within two and one-half games of the league-leading Cardinals.

Home-runs featured the opening contest, Kelly breaking a scoreless tie with a circuit blow in the sixth, while Waner knotted the score with another in the seventh. However, two rallies in the eighth and ninth netted the visitors four runs to put the game safely away.

Aldridge twirled steadily until the last frame, when he blew up and left the game with the bases full and two out. Bush went to his rescue and retired Pinch Hitter Terry for the final out.

IN the second game, Meadows pitched perfect ball for six and two-thirds innings, when Frisch beat out an infield tap. New York's lone run was the result of Meusel's triple and Tyson's single in the eighth.

Paul Waner, of the Pirates, was the batting star of the day, with five safeties, good for fourteen bases, two of which were home runs. He drove in two runs in each game.

The Giants announced the purchase of Chick Thompson, second baseman of the Buffalo International league club. The price was not stated.

Nordlinger Captures Town-Country Title

Walter Nordlinger for the second time annexed the championship of the Town and Country club's handicap tournament yesterday when he defeated Dr. M. B. Fischer in the final round, 5 up and 3. It was in the semifinal play that Nordlinger was given his greatest opposition, Nathan B. Frank, having the champion all-even on the eighteenth tee, before the latter took the hole and the match.

Dr. Fischer earned his finals spurs by defeating Daniel Sherby, 5 up and 4. The annual club championship, with all players at scratch, has been scheduled for next Sunday.

Nats' Offer Spurned By Carroll

Rookie Hurler Refuses to Report; May Lose Chance.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 12.—For a young fellow just starting out in his chosen profession, it looks very much as though Pitcher Joe Carroll, bought by the Nationals from Chattanooga, is making a great mistake in failing to join the hold-over champs, as ordered.

His present stand looks to be a case of "penny wise and pound foolish." He was ordered to join the Harrismen here yesterday and not only has failed to do so, but is understood to have refused unless guaranteed his transportation back home at the end of the season. This amounts to but a few dollars and may cost him ten times as much in the long run.

The average rookie usually can not wait to report when given a chance in the big show and would grab an opportunity of this kind like a fish does a choice worm. In Carroll's particular case he is passing up a most unusual opportunity.

SOME players toil in the minors all their lives waiting for the chance which they never get, while opportunity is knocking at Carroll's door before he has completed a full season in the bushes. Yet he not only is passing it up for a few dollars, but is likely to draw a suspension if he does not change his mind shortly.

The rookie will suffer in another way if he persists in his stand, in that his job will be harder when he does show up. Already Manager Harris has the impression that Carroll either is not particularly interested in his work or that he is one of that "baseball lawyer" type of players hard to get along with. It's tough enough for a rookie to break in under ordinary conditions, and Carroll's stand is placing an added burden on his shoulders.

The Nats end their set with the Indians tomorrow, with Gen. Alvin Crowder being due to draw the pitching assignment. Speaker is expected to turn his pitching job over to Joe Shaute.

If the weather man is in form, however, the fracas will not be played, for rain is predicted. In this event the game will be held over until Tuesday, when both teams have an open date. But if the battle is staged as scheduled, Harris will take his men to Detroit tomorrow night, and the team will idle a day in Tigertown.

Harris was well pleased with the recent showings of both Lefty Thomas and Admiral Decatur Jones. "Thomas has lots more stuff than

Pegler Writes Of Tunney's Language

He Calls His Fighting Tights Regimentals of Pugilism.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Sept. 12.—When a prize fighter is heard using hand-painted words there is a natural curiosity to know what's the matter with him, whether it's serious, how he got that way and what can be done about it.

Gene Tunney has been speaking a strange language up here in this verdant pucker in the Pocono hills, using such words as pneumococci, interregnum and post-prandial, and even Mr. Lou Fink, his trainer, has to guess what he means when he refers to a common, standard gauge wheelbarrow as a vehicle, or a pair of ordinary, muslin, fighting tights as the regimentals of pugilism.

Sitting down to luncheon recently, Mr. Tunney asked "Where are my utensils?" Mr. Fink said he was sure Mr. Tunney put 'em on when he got up in the morning, Mr. Oscar Till said they had probably gone down to see the town and Mr. Bryan Downey said: "I thought you had them taken out in Kansas City."

NOW, the question is whether this sort of conversation is a natural thing with Gene Tunney, or something that possessed him about the time he began to inhabit the blimp model bloomers of the golfer and black and white shoes of the Palm Beach comber.

Tunney was born in Greenwich Village, you know, and he came up to maturity in a neighborhood where "I seen" and "We done" bejewel the language of the country.

He had less than the equivalent of a regular high school education, and his friends, until a few years ago, were clock-punching people who doubtless dipped their bread in the gravy and wore a shirt twice.

After the war, when Tunney began to make himself noticeable as a prize fighter, he also began to accumulate acquaintances in what may be regarded by some, the better classes of society. He began to meet and impress men with three words in their signatures, such as Dudley Field Malone, and it not only pleased but astounded him to find himself taken up in a serious, social way by Gov. Jimmy Cox, of Miami, who once ran for President of the United States.

Gene Tunney, who had been glad to receive a personal time of the day from the district leader down in Greenwich Village as a young man, was meeting mayors and governors and was being bidden to the pale pink-frosting mansions of Florida's aristocracy where people took artichokes calmly.

He noticed that members of such society had their own equivalents for the phrases of Greenwich Village, and Gene, being ambitious, wanted to make good with them.

IT may be held against him by some that Gene Tunney would rather associate with a wealthy loafer than a nickel-and-dime idler, and this may be a good opportunity for some one to rise up and declare that many an honest heart beats beneath a $2 shirt.

However, as between the genteel

DEMPSEY WILL BAR PUBLIC FROM CAMP; LOUGHRAN BEATEN

Seclusion Follows the Precedent Set by Carpentier.

Champion Seeking to Perfect Condition in Secret.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 12 (By A. P.).—Jack Dempsey, following the precedent established by Georges Carpentier, will finish the remainder of his training campaign in secret, starting Wednesday.

Tomorrow will be the last time the public will have a chance to see him in action before he defends his world's heavyweight championship title against Gene Tunney in Philadelphia September 23.

Dempsey announced tonight he would lay off Tuesday, and when the stretch drive of his intensive campaign is started on Wednesday only newspaper correspondents will be permitted within the gates of the greyhound racing track. The correspondents will be allowed to watch the workouts for three days and thereafter the training sessions will be strictly private.

"I HAVE no desire to cover up anything," Dempsey said, "but I want to get into condition and feel that I can do my best by being allowed to work by myself, with nobody around. I have given the public a chance to see what condition I am in. I think everybody was satisfied with my showing today."

Reminded that he will lose around $6,000 or $7,000 in gate admissions by barring the public, Dempsey said, with a smile: "That's all right with me. We'll turn that week over to Jack Kearns and call it 'Kearns week.'"

Dempsey never before has closed his training camps to the public. In doing so he has followed the example of Georges Carpentier, who, while training for the famous battle of a century against Dempsey five years ago, erected a barbed wire fence around his camp at Manhassett, Long island, and persisted in working in secret.

Dempsey, in his five savage rounds of boxing today, convinced expert observers that he rapidly is getting on edge. The champion revealed his true fighting form by all but knocking out Tommy Loughran, the Philadelphia light-heavyweight, who only yesterday made Dempsey appear awkwardly clumsy, and at times like a novice.

The crowd of nearly 4,000 spectators, expecting to see Loughran duplicate his showing of yesterday, sat in hushed silence as the Philadelphia boxer was being cruelly punished.

After the two brisking rounds with Loughran, Dempsey flung punches at Martin Burke for two rounds, finishing up with a round against Frankie Carpenter. Dempsey punished Burke with the same viciousness with which he tore into Loughran, but the New Orleans boxer, knowing more of Dempsey's style, was more fortunate in escaping from some of the heavy wallops to the head which drove Loughran against the ropes.

Phipps Hurls Boyds To Pair of Victories

Boyds, Md., Sept. 12.—Henry Phipps, Washington boy, hurled and won a double-header for Boyds against the Bethesda nine, in the Montgomery County league. The scores were, 5 to 1 and 11 to 6.

Tunney Travels Four Furious Rounds With Mates.

Gene "Looks Good," Is Johnny Dundee's Comment.

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Sept. 12 (By A. P.).—Fair weather today transferred most of the population of Stroudsburg to Gene Tunney's training camp and possibly influenced the challenger in putting on one of his most vigorous workouts. He boxed four rounds, two each with Billy Kidabeck and Harold Mays. Before the ring work, Tunney punched the light and heavy bag.

Dr. Robert Shea, a New York surgeon, relieved any anxiety Tunney may have felt over his cut lip. The surgeon found it making satisfactory progress and a few days was expected to see it healed.

Two boxers of widely contrasted weights were at the ringside today—Johnny Dundee, Italian-American lightweight, and Harry Parson, Swedish heavyweight. Dundee said the challenger "looks good."

"He is certainly in fine condition," was Dundee's comment. Pearson declined to comment for publication.

THE challenger will work again tomorrow, but will do no boxing Tuesday. He will put in a full program again Wednesday and Thursday, take a holiday Friday, and then box on alternate days up to the time he leaves his training camp for the championship bout at Philadelphia.

Billy Vidabeck will not be in the ring tomorrow, as he has a bout on his own account with Lou Bobash in Scranton tomorrow night.

A crowd estimated at more than 6,000 persons was in the vicinity of the ring at the Glenbrook Golf club this afternoon. The assembly proved so huge that an acute traffic problem was developed.

Hills nearby were dotted with spectators and a few trees near the ring offered seats of vantage.

Jack Dempsey Approved By Gibbons' Knowing Wink

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 12 (By A. P.).—Tommy Gibbons, who holds the distinction of being the only heavyweight to engage Jack Dempsey in a fifteen-round contest and remain on his feet at the finish, appeared at the world's heavyweight champion's camp here today in the role of a newspaper correspondent. They exchanged greetings in the dressing room as Dempsey was getting into his ring clothes.

"Hello Tom, how are you?" Dempsey exclaimed, shaking the St. Paul boxer's hand warmly.

Noting Gibbons' full face and rotund body, revealing pounds of extra weight, Dempsey added:

"You look as big as Strangler Lewis, the wrestler."

Gibbons sat at a corner edge of the ring with his eyes glued on Dempsey's flying fists as the champion flayed his sparring mates. The St. Paul heavyweight, reserving his opinion of Dempsey for his own newspaper stories, merely winked after the workout, but the wink was accepted as an indication that Gibbons was satisfied with what he saw.

32 Lowest Scores of Field of 150 Eligible to Continue.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 12.—The thirtieth annual tournament to decide the amateur golf championship of the United States will begin tomorrow morning on the course of the Baltusrol club. There are two 18-hole courses on the property owned by the Baltusrol organization, but only the lower course, which is the original layout, will be used.

These eighteen holes were crowded throughout today by the 150 and odd contestants, who hope to qualify tomorrow. Only the 32 lowest scores will be eligible and the field includes not only the best known golfers in the country but a very large proportion of youngsters regarding whose capacity nothing whatever is known, and who may throw into the discard the experts whose names are on everybody's lips.

Take, for instance, the case of George Voigt, the District amateur and Middle Atlantic champion. Voigt playing today in a foursome in which his fellow Washingtonian, A. L. Houghton, was included, made a round of the course in 73, playing the outward nine in 38 and coming home in 35, finishing with birdie 4s at the seventeenth and eighteenth holes.

THERE are any number of young players entered, like Frank Dolp, of Portland, Oreg., who recently won the Western amateur in sensational fashion, who are showing the champions of former years that a new generation of golfers has sprung into being.

It is players of this kind who may be drawn against Bobby Jones in the crucial 18-hole rounds of Wednesday morning and Wednesday afternoon, and who may, by some brilliant and spectacular work, give Jones a real battle.

This afternoon Sherill Sherman, of Utica, who is a veteran of more than a dozen national tournaments, and who is certainly 60 years of age, started his round with a card of 4, 3, 3, 2, four birdies in a row. Any golfer who can shoot this kind of golf would probably have even Bobby Jones 4 down in the first four holes, and with only 18 holes to play, Jones would have to struggle throughout the rest of the round.

Voigt did better today than any other of the Washington entrants. Stevinson was not going well, so that his total was over 80, which would be fatal in qualifying round, while neither Page Hufty nor Haughton broke into the 70's although all of them were out on the course in a practice round.

Roland Mackenzie very sensibly refrained from playing this afternoon, contenting himself with driving a few balls from the practice tee while his father, Albert R. Mackenzie, and George P. James, of Washington, played in a four-ball match with George Morse, of Vermont, and Robert Gwaltmey, of Baltusrol, the latter being the host of both Mackenzie and James at his home near the Baltusrol course.

BOBBY JONES did not play today, but spent the afternoon in an automobile ride, preferring to rest before the

MARLBORO INAUGURATES FIVE-DAY MEET TODAY

2-Year-Olds Will Open Program

Plant Given General Overhauling for Fall Racing.

Events Are Liberally Filled; Open Date Tomorrow.

ALL roads in southern Maryland will lead today to Marlboro, where the annual race meet and fair will be held during the week.

Racing will be on tap every day except tomorrow, which day will be devoted to the horse show and judging of fair exhibits. Both the equine show and the fair promise to be bigger and better than ever in every respect.

During the summer the plant was given a general overhauling, and visitors will see a greatly improved place. New barns have been built, others repaired, a new fence constructed, an archway erected and the buildings have been given a liberal supply of paint.

Marlboro will be liberally supported by special trains out of both Washington and Baltimore, and the usual long line of motors will be seen on the highway daily. All in all it looks as if the 1926 fair will make history that will not soon be forgotten.

JOHN P. TURNER, racing secretary, has prepared what appears to be a splendid program for the meeting of five days, which will wind up the sport on the small ovals for this year in Maryland. Sprints, middle distance and long contests predominate, and a race has been written for every kind of a horse on the grounds.

Sufficient ponies are quartered here to assure the usual number of six and eight entries in each race. Provided the horses stand the strain liberal nominations should be made daily for the events of today.

Today's program calls for maiden 2-year-olds to perform in the opening event. Two of the races are over a distance of ground and the others are at either six or about six and a half furlongs.

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

CAPISTRANO.

Yes, we gave you this once before and it won and it goes right back in the second race at Hawthorne on opening day. The McGill racer is at home over this track, and in its present good form will be hard to beat. DOCTOR GLENN and BALL GEE for what is left.

For the day's opener I have a real pickler in MARION ELIZABETH. THE WIRE will probably get the bulk of the play.

MAROUSSIA, from the Breckenridge stables, is the hot one in the third. Can't see anything else, but some crack sprinters will hook up in the fourth. Fancy LITTLE VISITOR will gather the big end of the purse, with CHINK and T. S. JORDAN next in order. CHICAGO catches my fancy in the fifth. Loves this track and will show big improvement over everything he has done at Lincoln Fields.

FIRE UNDER looks like a standout in the sixth. PANDOSTO is the sleeper here.

In the seventh it looks like GOLDEN LYNN all the way. MARY ELLEN O. and BLARNEYSTONE in the order named.

Over at Brooklyn the good word is string with Gene Lutz's NAUGHTY NISBA in the fourth spasm. Has BARBERRY to beat.

REDWOOD, in the third, is another hot one right off the griddle. The boys at Dade Park wigwag. CALIGULA, three star special, goes in the third race.

BOYS BELIEVE ME is in a nice spot in the sixth.

MAD BOY is the sleeper in the seventh. Better have a ticket on this one both ways. I know something.

More anon.

Swede Beats Nurmi; Sets 2-Mile Record

Berlin, Sep. 12 (By A. P.).—Running 2 miles today in 9 minutes 1 2-5 seconds, Emil Wide, of Sweden, not only settled old scores with Paavo Nurmi, of Finland, whom he outdistanced by a score or more yards, but established a new world record.

Nurmi, too, outdid himself, also beating the previous world record by covering the distance in 9 minutes 5 seconds.

The previous world's record for 2 miles was made by the British champion, A. Shrubb, in 1904—9 minutes 9 3-5 seconds.

There were five men in the race and the American, Goodwin, finished last. Goodwin took the lead at the start and held it for 1,000 yards; then Nurmi went to the front and held that position up to about 300 yards from home.

Wide, whose life ambition it has been to wrest the palm from Nurmi, said after the race that he did not feel very much exhausted. He remarked, however, that Nurmi always caused considerable annoyance to any one running behind him by frequently changing his step.

Dundee and Morgan Meet for Title Oct. 12

New York, Sept. 12 (By A. P.).—Johnny Dundee, New York featherweight, will oppose Tod Morgan, of Seattle, Wash., for the junior lightweight championship at San Francisco, October 12, Dundee's manager, Joe Jacobs, announced today. The bout will go ten rounds.

The match originally was made for September 7, but was put off when Dundee suffered an injury to his arm. Morgan is scheduled to oppose Carl Duane, of New York, in a title bout here the latter part of the month and in the event he is defeated Dundee will meet Jimmy McLarnin, coast boxer.

Two District Cyclists Score at Philadelphia

Philadelphia, Sept. 12 (By A. P.).—Illinois and the District of Columbia shared honors in the national bicycle championships which were concluded in the Municipal stadium today. Edward Merkner, of Chicago, representing Illinois, successfully defended his title as senior champion, by scoring 13 points, 4 more than his nearest competitors.

Chester Atwood, of Washington, triumphed over a field of 20 States' representatives to garner the junior championship with a total of 14 points. Irving McNulty, of Colorado, finished second to him with 10 points.

In the one-third mile sprint, which contained a bad spill, Connor, of Washington, was one of the few able to keep his wheel and won the race. Atwood tallied his points by winning the half mile and the mile unpaced events with a third in the quarter and a fourth in the 2-mile.

In both the senior and the junior championship averages there was a deadlock that required a special run-off to decide the place winner. In the senior events, Connor, of Washington, and Edward Rodes, of Maryland, both scored 9 points to take second place.

FIRST BASEMEN INJURED.

Alexandria, Va., Sept. 12.—Two fast first basemen of local amateur unlimited teams are out with injuries. Carlton Snoots, of the Fire Department A. A., sustained an injury to his knee, while Joe Hamilton, of St. Mary's, tore a ligament in his right arm while practicing recently.

BACKS CHIEF WORRY OF HILLTOP

Finishing Touches to Be Applied When Team Returns.

By JACK ESPEY.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Sept. 12.—Three more days in training camp at this seashore resort and the Georgetown university football squad returns to Washington to apply the finishing touches to its preparatory work before opening the season against Drexel Institute, September 25.

Although there will be no let-up in the vigorous program laid out for the remaining days here, there really is little need for further conditioning of the players as they are now in such fine shape physically that they could go through an actual battle in mid-season style.

Coach Lou Little is fairly bubbling over with enthusiasm so far as the condition of the squad as a whole is concerned, but he speaks less glowingly of its strength, for he is doubtful about the backfield.

HOWEVER, he feels he still has plenty of time before the opening game to perfect a quartet behind the line, who will be able to give better than an ordinary exhibition. He has seven candidates for the backfield berths, including the veteran quarterback, Bob Gormley, and he is perplexed as to the disposition of four of them.

Gormley may be said to have clinched his old job of calling the signals, while Jerry Thompson and Bob Nork appear to have outstripped the field for one of the halfbacks and the fullback positions, respectively.

This leaves Parker Scott, Bucky O'Neill, George Donovan and George McCabe fighting for the other halfback. It is a toss-up as to who is the best man. The next two weeks will tell.

A battlecry already is going the rounds among the varsity to "get the freshmen." The first-year players have been in Washington for several days' training under Assistant Coach Frank Murray and hoping to form an eleven strong enough to beat the varsity when they return.

But the varsity is like so many wild animals when they think of the coming clash, as it will be their initial taste of real competition, for which they have been terribly hungry.

THEY look upon the impending meeting with wide grins, as if to say, "What a licking those kids are gonna get!" But with their characteristic self-confidence, the freshmen probably have no fears whatsoever.

Another new candidate for the freshman team reported to Coach Little today, and he was told to continue to Washington to join his playmates to be. He is C. I. Holmes, a strongly built youth, who formerly was an all-around athlete at Mercersburg academy.

qualifying round tomorrow. While a large number of the contestants who played practice rounds reported scores under 80, "Chick" Evans was the only golfer who broke 70, his card totaling 69, one stroke less than the total credited to J. Wood Platt.

The latter's name, by the way, has been added to the entry list along with S. Davison Herron, former national champion; Eugene Cook, of Atlanta; W. J. "Zimmer" Platt, and Carlton Wells, former State champion of Michigan. These additional entries take the place of Harrison Johnston, Oswald Kirkby, Louis Jacoby, Major Omerod, of England, and a few others, who for various reasons have withdrawn.

Capt. Gore to Enter U. S. Singles Tourney

Capt. A. J. Gore, who last week came through the national veterans doubles play at Brookline, Mass., by winning the title, with Claude Butlin, of Mexico City, as his partner, will go after further honors this week by entering the national veterans singles play at Forest Hills, L. I., which tournament will be conducted along with the national singles. Capt. Gore will be Washington's only entrant in either tournament, since Tom Mangan, who is eligible for the national singles, will be occupied with business matters.

The only other player from the Middle Atlantic district known to be entered in the tournament is Eddie Jacobs, the Baltimore boy wizard, who will participate in the national singles.

Capt. Gore's first opponent will be George W. Case, of Providence, R. I. Should the local player be successful in this match, and in his second-round encounter the following day, he will meet Alfred J. Cawse, last year's champion, in the third round, providing the champion receives no unexpected reverse.

Tilden Opens Defense Of U. S. Title Today

New York, Sept. 12 (By A. P.).—If William T. Tilden emerges from the national tennis singles championship which starts at Forest Hills tomorrow with the crown still on his head, he will be in all truth a champion.

For in the field of 64 players that will attempt to push Big Bill into has-beendom are William M. Johnston, perennial runner-up to the champion; Vincent Richards, who conquered Tilden thrice this season and was once victim; Rene La Coste, the French stylist, who defeated Tilden in the final Davis cup singles match at Philadelphia Saturday; Henri Cochet, of France; Manuel Alonso, of Spain; Richard N. Williams, former champion, and Takeichi Harada, of Japan. Harada has defeated Johnston, La Coste and cochet this season.

In these seven, alone, there is enough skill and strength to make the champion watch his step. If Tilden can pass them, there can be no denying his greatness.

MARLBORO FORFEITS.

Chevy Chase received a double-forfeit in section A when the Marlboro team failed to appear for a doubleheader.

GENE TUNNEY'S TALK PUZZLE TO PARTNERS

bum of the upper classes and the mugs that Tunney put behind him when he left Greenwich Village, it would be hypocritical to choose the latter.

Any way, Gene always did have an honest curiosity to know what lay between the covers of books. There seems to have been haphazard reading, of the kind that would give him a general semblance of education. You might call it a newspaperman's education, for it enables him to use such terms as "fidus Achates" and "the heel of Achilles" and "beyond the Alps lies Italy" in an appropriate way.

He bored into one book and learned the roster of the bones of the human hand, and one day last year he flummoxed a noted Missouri surgeon, who was treating him for an injured knuckle by discussing the carpus, the metacarpus and the phalanges in an understanding manner, whereas Mickey McTigue, for instance, would merely have said: "Doc, me hand is hurted."

On rare occasions you may catch Gene Tunney bumping his head against the limitations of his education, as he remarked one day last week when an announcer introduced him from the ring as Mr. Tunney:

"I seem to be achieving quite a bit of vicarious dignity."

MR. HARRY NEWMAN, the boxing writer, who has covered them all from the day of Jim Jeffries, grasped a ring post and yelled for succor at that. "Water," Mr. Newman cried, feebly. "Or whisky, or something. That guy licks me with his vicarious and eleemosynary and his ex-post fact."

Tunney's vocabulary was honestly come by and it wouldn't be at all sensational if he were in one of the genteel trades. It is only the fact that he is following John L. Sullivan's line of work and Kid Broad's and Battling Nelson's that makes him conspicuous, not to say outrageous, when he assents to Mr. Lou Fink's vehement "Ain't that a wow?" with a defiant and cultured, "Truly marvelous!"

TRIBE WINNER OVER NATS, 14 TO 4

Murray Knocked Out of Box; Burns and Speaker Star.

Murray then settled down and retired the side.

A GREAT one-hand catch by Jamieson, which robbed Myer of at least a double, prevented the Nats from taking advantage of two walks issued by Levsen in the third. These came in succession, with one down, and Goslin's sacrifice fly advanced both runners a base, where they were marooned.

Lutzke's double and theft of third, followed by Levsen's single, were good for another run in the Indians' turn at the tee. Jamieson then doubled, and after Spurgeon had flied to Rice Thomas took the hill. Speaker greeted him with a triple and Burns' single scored Spoke, bringing the alien total to ten.

In the fourth, with one down, J. Sewell's bad peg of Harris' roller let Bucky reach second, and Umpire Evans then called a halt to hostilities as the clouds suddenly opened. For 40 minutes Old Jup Pluv did his stuff with the Nats vainly praying that he would keep on, and thus was the game off the books. The diamond was a quagmire when play was resumed, and Levsen retired the side with Stanley still camped on second.

A timely single by Judge with two dead, the bases loaded as a result of two walks and Rice's single, and the count 3 and 2, gave the Nats three runs in their fifth. Harris also singled in this frame, but this blow was wasted.

CLEVELAND made four runs in the seventh after the Nats twice had blown chances to retire the side. With two down, Thomas fanned Levtwo down. Thomas fanned Levsen, but Tate let the ball get away fro mhim. Then Myer fumbled Jamieson's roller and three hits, including Speaker's second double, and another error by Tate, did the rest.

Singles by Harris, Tate and McNeely gave the Nats a useless run in the eighth. Marberry hurled the home half and the only Indian who got on was Summa, who was given life on Myer's second error of the game.

A wasted single off Myer's bat was all the Nats drew in their ninth.

Independents Elect Peyton as Manager

Alexandria, Va., Sept. 12.—Tom Peyton was elected field manager of the Independent A. C. unlimited football team at a meeting held here yesterday, while Robert MacDonald will serve as business manager, with Woodson, former University of South Carolina, to coach the eleven.

CROWDER TAKES HILL AT CLEVELAND TODAY

he had when we turned him loose this spring," said Bucky, "and his control was not bad at all. Jones also impressed me as having considerable ability."

THE Admiral, incidentally, comes here with quite a reputation as a slugger; in fact, he played center field for Chattanooga in a few games this season and showed up well at the swinging block. He pinch-hit for Thomas today, but Levsen fanned him.

Closely following the "official" announcement of Pilot Harris' engagement is expected to be one concerning Ossie Bluege. He was busy before today's game getting the players' signatures on a couple of balls, and Stuffy brought a laugh by accusing him of planning to use these autographed spheres as the first month's payment of the gas and electric light bills.

Joe Harris, who was one of Washington's batting heroes in the last world's series, will fill another role in the coming title set. He will play scribe, covering the set for the Franklin (Pa.) Gazookus, the leading newspaper in his home town.

Catcher Ennis, purchased from the Elmira, N. Y., team, is expected to join the Nats at Detroit. With only Ruel and Tate available, he will come in handy warming up the pitchers and working behind the plate in stick practice.

KNICKS SHUT OUT SHAMROCKS, 11 TO 0, NEAR TITLE

Chase Holds Harps to 4 Hits

Kuhnert Wild and Is Relieved by Mickey McConnell.

Murray's Double and Single Drive in First Four Runs.

THE Knickerbockers virtually clinched the section A honors, in the Capital City league, yesterday when they smothered the Shamrocks under an 11-to-0 score at American League park. The victory marked the eleventh straight for the Georgetown team, winner of the District championship last year.

"Hal" Chase, former Hyattsville High pitcher, who has done a turn in the minors, climbed the big league mound for the Knicks and proceeded to set the famed Shamrock sluggers down with four hits, two of these of the scratch variety, and all scattered. In addition, he fanned eight batters.

The mound hopes of the Shamrocks, to regain the title wrested from them by the Knicks last year, were entrusted to "Lefty" Kuhnert, who has seldom failed the Southeast team.

But he was wild and the Knicks injected their hits when most needed with the result that with the score 5 to 0 and two on "Mickey" McConnell was called upon. He finally retired the side but was given a drubbing in the ninth.

THE Knicks gave Chase brilliant support, while the Shamrocks duplicated, to a certain extent, their lapses afield, which cost them the first game. At that, it was only possible to credit a single error to the Harps.

"Huckster" Hilleary turned in the best individual defensive effort when he robbed Tom Hook, batting for Moran in the ninth, of at least a double with a beautiful running catch. Hamel, Moran and Haas figured in a pretty double play for the Harps.

Dumped near the bottom of the Knick lineup, "Herbie" Murray came through with a double and a single which drove in the Knicks' first four runs. "Bill" Werber, formerly of Tech, stole three bases and incidentally leads the league in that art. He also collected two hits, while "Yoe" Murray contributed a double and single and scored three times.

Three-Game Series To Coca Cola Nine

With McCracken allowing only four hits, the Coca Cola Midgets captured the third of a three-game series from the Auth Midgets yesterday by the score of 4 to 1. The Auths took the initial game and the Cokes took the last two.

In addition to hurling an excellent game, McCracken hit safely three out of three times up. One smack was good for three bases. Lombard was another Coke player who had a perfect day. Appick's hitting featured for the losers.

Torney bested Watson in a pitchers' battle. The hitting of "Bob" Jones and "Dobby" Dobrowolski was an important factor.

The Tremonts won their game in a rough and tumble battle with the Takoma Tigers. The score was 15 to 10. The Ciango brothers led the Tremonts' attack throughout.

In the other game, the Cardinals took the measure of the Arrows, 8 to 1, thanks to Burke's brilliant pitching.

Ruth Needs Home Run Daily to Set Record

Chicago, Sept. 12 (By A. P.).—Babe Ruth would need a home run a day and two on each of the Sundays left before the season ends to set a new major league record. He added only one to his list during the past week, but his total of 42 gave him just twice as many as Wilson, of Chicago, who leads the National league with 21.

The New York Yankees have sixteen more games to play, and Ruth's five-year-old record of 59 homers in a season bids fair to stand at least another year.

Those who have hit ten or more home runs this season:

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

CHERRYDALE WINS OVER SOLDIERS

Again Lead Arlington Series by Taking 14-4 Game.

CHERRYDALE not only regained the lead in the Arlington county series, but practically won the title when it pounced on the Fort Myer team for a 14-to-4 victory before the largest crowd to witness a game in Arlington county this season.

The Cherries walked right out of their corner and hopped the Soldiers for nine runs in the first inning, making four straight hits off of Sergeant Bill McLean, the Fort Myer ace. His poor support did the rest.

FROM that point to the finish there was little to the game, Cherrydale getting rid of McLean in the sixth with another attack.

"Buck" Clatterbuck and his submarine ball were too much for the service nine in the pinches. He found time to fan five batters, while McLean, the league's "strikeout king," could add only three whiffs to his long record.

Otto Speiss continued his terrific hitting for the Cherries, accounting for a triple, double and a single.

DISTRICT MAN HAS BOAT IN REGATTA

McCormick-Goodhart Racer to Compete in Speed Classic.

J. H. McCORMICK-GOODHART, Washington yachtsman, will attempt to keep the President's cup at home, though nearly all of the entries for the big race of the regatta here next Friday and Saturday will come from out of town.

McCormick-Goodhart will drive his Silver Heels against a field made up of some of the best known speed boats in the world, but he has hopes of success. The Silver Heels is capable of sustained speed of a mile a minute. The winning of such classic races sometimes is much a matter of good fortune. Many a star has lost out because of engine trouble.

Jim Orme, the auto merchant, will take a fling at the trophy, too. Orme has just purchased a boat, but is not fully aware of its capabilities. It will go to the post an uncertain quantity.

ONE of the most interesting races on the colorful two-day program will be the Junior President's cup contest, in which craft of small and inexpensive design will compete. It will be a sort of water flivver championship event, with Biscayne Babies pitted against "151" boats, so-called from their piston displacement, which is limited to 151 cubic inches.

Miss Spitfire, which holds the world record in the 151 class with a speed of 41½ miles an hour, will defend her title in a race strictly for boats of her class. Among the entries are J. G. Beard's Miss Washington, a Washington boat; two Baltimore hydroplanes, Lady Baltimore and La Palina; Baby Peerless, owned by L. R. Grimm, of the Buffalo Launch club; William McPherson Bigelow's Greased Lightning, and several others.

RIALTOS TAKE SECTION B HONORS

Ottenberg Hurls Club to 3-1 Triumph Over Donohoe.

THE Rialto club baseball team was pitched to a 3-to-1 victory over the Donohoe Motor Co. Co. nine and championship of section B of the Capital City league's unlimited series by "Gilly" Ottenberg, who yesterday showed 2,000 persons at Washington barracks a rare hurling performance.

The Rialtos yesterday climaxed their drive for the section championship with a triumph over their most dangerous rivals, Donohoe, which had been the only team to set back the clubmen in the series. The Rialtos concluded their pennant drive playing sure-fire baseball behind the pitching of their one dependable hurler.

Four hits was the allotment of Donohoe during the nine innings. McCarthy, of Donohoe, hurled in fine form but was found for hits only when the situation was adverse. He permitted only six safeties, four of which were produced with Rialto players on the base paths.

THE Rialtos won the game in the second inning, when three solid swats resulted in two runs. Wolf walked, was sacrificed to second, and scored on Povich's single to center. Lipkin's double scored Povich with what proved to be the winning run.

Thereafter, Ottenberg was in command except for a slight period in the fourth inning, when a mental lapse on the part of the infield moved Casper to third, whence he scored on Wingate's second hit of the afternoon.

Timely support in the field helped Ottenberg over two rough spots. Simon and Sauber roamed the outer garden with deadly effect, cutting off possible hits early in the game. A sharp double play was the Rialto's final salvo to conclude the contest in the ninth inning.

With a man on first base and one out, the next Donohoe batter sent a scorcher to Sauber at second base. Sauber scooped the ball to Povich for a force-out at second and the throw to first completed the double play.

Lipkin and Wingate were the hitting heroes. The former obtained two safeties, one a double, in as many times at bat. Wingate scored half of his team's four hits. A double by Mensch, on which he was thrown out in an attempt to make third, was the longest hit of the afternoon.

A. & P. GYPSIES ON AIR.

Musical Nomads Return to Microphone at WRC After Tour.

The A. & P. Gypsies, the musical nomads of the air, will return to the microphone tonight in the first of a series of winter concerts to be broadcast by WRC, WEAF and other stations.

The Gypsies, who have only recently returned from a concert tour of the United States, will be heard on the air this evening, beginning at 9 o'clock, and they will play under the direction of Harry Horlick, young Russian violinist.

A second feature will be a dance concert to be offered by Vincent Lopez and his orchestra, which is playing this week in a Washington theater. The Lopez orchestra will give its radio concert from WRC's studios, beginning at 10:30 o'clock, and will include in its program a number of the dance hits played by the band in New York city. WRC's program will also include a tabloid presentation by the WEAF grand opera troupe, of Massanet's opera, "Manon."

Motorist Finds Body in Swamp.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 12 (By A. P.). A foot protruding from a roadside swamp, which attracted the attention of a passing motorist, led to the finding of the body of a man near Blackoak, Ind., who authorities believe had been murdered and thrown into the swamp nearly two months ago.
